Cuban Leader Alleges 'Blockade Act of War'

Negotiator Expects Early Release of Castro's Captives

Apparently Only Formalities Remain During Havana Talks

HAVANA (AP) — Release of 1,113 Cuban prisoners captured in the April 1961 invasion appeared imminent today. A negotiator for the families of the captives said it seemed that "all went well, thank God."

Apparently only a few formalities, such as the wording of the communiqué, remained to be settled before the men are set free and flown to the United States. The optimistic impression came from Mrs. Berta Barreto de los Heros, Havana representative of the Cuban Families Committee. She refused to elaborate on her comment that all seemed well. She said she was pledged to silence during the final stage of the talks.

Attorney Returns

The likelihood of an impending break was strengthened by a quick trip from Havana to Miami by New York attorney James B. Donovan, negotiator for the families' committee. Speculation arose that Donovan, who flew back to Havana Sunday night, had arranged special transportation to Florida for the prisoners. Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government asked $62 million for all prisoners taken in the Bay of Pigs invasion. About 60 have been freed, Donovan said when he left for Havana last month that he would offer Castro medicine and food in lieu of a cash ransom.

Mrs. Barreto said that Donovan was to meet Castro again, possibly today. In a speech opening the Latin American University Games Sunday night, Deputy Prime Minister

Giants Even Series With 7-3 Victory

Chuck Hiller Hits Grand Slam For San Francisco

NEW YORK — The San Francisco Giants evened the World Series at two games apiece as they powered their way to a 7-3 victory over the New York Yankees at Yankee stadium this afternoon.

Big blow of the game was Chuck Hiller's grand slam homer in the seventh. Tom Haller had a 2-run homer for the winners in the second.

FIRST INNING

GIANTS—Kuenn flied to Tresh. Hiller lined to Kubek. Boyer threw out Mays.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

YANKEES — Kubek walked. Richardson struck out and Kubek was caught in a run down between first and second. Haller to Hiller to Cepeda to Hiller to Marichal who made the tag. Tresh singled. Mantle struck out.

SECOND INNING

GIANTS—F. Alou doubled. Kubek threw out Cepeda. F. Alou holding second. Davenport struck out. Haller smashed a 3-2 pitch into the lower right field stands for a home run, scoring F. Alou ahead of him to put the Giants in front 2-0. Pagan bounced out to Skowron unassisted.

Two runs, two hits, no errors, none left.

YANKEES—Mays made a fine running catch of Maris' fly. Pagan knocked down Howard's hard smash behind second. Ten recovered the ball and retired the runner with a fine underarm throw. Skowron, tripped. Boyer flied to Kuenn.

THIRD INNING

GIANTS — Marichal flied to Maris. Boyer threw out Kuenn.

Anti-Castro Hecklers Interrupt Dorticos but Soviet Bloc Applauds Him

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — In a stormy General Assembly session, Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos Torrado demanded today that the United Nations condemn as "an act of war" what he called a U.S. naval blockade.

The Cuban president was interrupted repeatedly by anti-Castro hecklers. His reference to an alleged U.S. naval blockade brought a prolonged burst of applause from the Soviet bloc, a small group of African delegates and some visitors in the public galleries.

He received another round of applause when he said "Cuba has friends, Cuba has friendly governments. It is not alone."

A half-dozen shouting men and women were hustled from the public galleries by alert U.N. guards as they hurled insults at Dorticos. Security reinforcements were rushed into the galleries and the assembly president threatened to suspend the meeting unless order was maintained.

Scores Administration

In a bitter attack on the Kennedy administration, the Cuban president accused the United States of acting "in obvious contempt of the United Nations" in calling last week's meeting of Latin American foreign ministers in Washington.

He said the meeting was aimed at persuading the other nations to join in "the domestic subversion of my country."

Chief U.S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson indicated he would abide by U.N. tradition which forbids delegates to answer remarks made by a chief of state. But he arranged a news conference to charge Saudi Arabia with "flagrant aggression" along with the brothers.

British Surprised

British newspapers said U.A.R. troops and tanks have been sent to Yemen to support the revolutionary regime that has shown an allegiance to President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Britain expressed official surprise at the reports. A foreign office spokesman told a news conference in London the U.A.R. delegation at the United Nations had come out against any foreign intervention in Yemen.

"The reports that U.A.R. troops are in Yemen now, therefore, cause us some surprise," the British spokesman said. British naval patrol units in the Red Sea sighted U.A.R. transports along Yemen's unguarded coastline but the spokesman declined to say whether the government had independent confirmation of press reports that U.A.R. troops had been landed in Yemen.

The Cuban president stressed the chamber if necessary. Dorticos assailed the joint U.S. congressional statement, which he read out, that urged action against Cuba.

Schirra Reluctant To Stop Orbiting

Hopes U. S. Will Move Up Date of Next Space Quest

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Walter M. Schirra Jr., America's most widely traveled space pilot, says he came back from his "textbook flight" six times around the world with one suggestion for the next U.S. space venture. Just move up its launching date.

He came back from that flight reluctantly, said the 39-year-old Navy commander. "I would like to have gone for 12 more orbits," he said.

Schirra also told newsmen at a nationally televised news conference Sunday that at one point in his 4-hour, 13-minute flight he completely cut himself off from ground control.

Electric System Cut Off To conserve the power supply of his Sigma 7 spacecraft, he said, he threw a switch cutting off the electrical system which would have allowed ground control stations to bring him out of orbit in an emergency.

"From the beginning," he said, "I wanted to turn off the armed switch (control box), which means that it is my capsule and no one can bring me back until I put the switch back."

He left it off until Christopher I. Kraft, Project Mercury flight director, told him to turn it back on.

Foreign Aid Measure Given Senate Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate completed congressional action today on a bill appropriating $3,028,900,000 for foreign aid. The total is more than a billion dollars short of what President Kennedy asked.

Passage of the bill, a compromise worked out by Senate-House conferees, was by voice vote. The house passed it Saturday by a vote of 171 to 108.

Sending the bill to the White House moved congress one more step along the way to adjournment, but other hurdles remain to be cleared before the legislators can wind up the longest session since 1951.

The foreign aid funds are included in a $6,278,962,000 appropriation bill which also carried $70,110,000 for federal aid to Cuban refugees, most of them in the Miami area; $59 million for the Peace Corps, and $73 million for payment of Philippine war damage claims.

Decision Waits

There was a question whether congress could wind up the session this week. Sens. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., and George A. Smathers, D-Fla., insisted on enforcement of a rule requiring three days to elapse before an appropriations bill has been officially reported before the senate acts on it.

This — barring some reversal — cut off action until Friday on a $900 million supplemental appropriation bill.

Lke Goes to California to Help Nixon

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower hits the campaign trail in California today for his old running mate and vice president, Richard M. Nixon.

Republicans hope Eisenhower's vote-winning magic will help Nixon in his race for the California governorship against incumbent Edmund G. Brown.

The two former Washington teammates will speak at fund raising dinners linked by closed circuit television tonight—Eisenhower at the Cow Palace in San Francisco and Nixon at the Hollywood Palladium.

At Oklahoma City Sunday, Eisenhower criticized the Kennedy administration for what he called the weakening of the American concept of individual freedom and attempts by government to exert more control on U.S. citizens.

Supreme Court Rejects Appeal By Mississippi

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court rejected today an appeal by the state of Mississippi contesting orders that resulted in enrollment of James Howard Meredith, a Negro, at the University of Mississippi.

Meredith, 29, enrolled Oct. 1 under military protection ordered by President Kennedy to end two days of rioting in the university area.

Meredith's admission to the previously all-white university came after Justice Hugo Black on Sept. 10 enjoined university officials from taking any step to block the Negro's enrollment.

Before Black acted, Atty. Gen. Joe T. Patterson of Mississippi had filed an appeal with the high tribunal. It asked review and reversal of a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans that Meredith had improperly been denied admission in May 1961, solely because of his race.

UAW Union Votes to Ratify 1-Year Contract With Kohler Firm

SHEBOYGAN (AP) — The long and bitter strike at the Kohler Co., plumbingware plant near here ended formally Sunday when members of Local 833 of the United Auto Workers Union voted 411 to 45 to ratify a new one-year contract. The vote was announced by union officials.

Company and union negotiators reached final agreement on the only on his home island of Hawaii.

HONOLULU (AP) — Gov. William F. Quinn rode the crest of heavy voter turnout to defeat Lt. Gov. James Kealoha for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in Hawaii's primary election.

Yemen Looks For New Strife

Government Said to Mobilize Volunteers Against Royalists

CARIO (AP) — Yemen's revolutionary government today was reported mobilizing armed volunteers to crush any attempt by royalist tribesmen to restore the monarchy.

The semi-official United Arab Republic Middle East news agency said the revolutionary regime was arming 10,000 volunteers in Yemen's three major cities—San'a, Ta'izz and Hodeida.

Conflicting reports circulated about a struggle brewing in the isolated Arabian nation.

Chief U.S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson indicated he would abide by U.N. tradition which forbids delegates to answer remarks made by a chief of state. But he arranged a news conference to charge Saudi Arabia with "flagrant aggression" along with the brothers.

British newspapers said U.A.R. troops and tanks have been sent to Yemen to support the revolutionary regime that has shown an allegiance to President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

West Berlin Press Urges Showdown On Red Challenge

BERLIN (AP) — West Berlin newspapers today demanded Western action, instead of another addition to a pile of paper protests, to counter the latest Communist challenge to Western freedom of movement in Berlin.

Two newspapers suggested that the Western powers bar Soviets from West Berlin in retaliation for the refusal of East German border guards to let a British ambulance enter East Berlin.

The ambulance was barred Saturday when it attempted to go to the medical aid of a West Berliner who was shot at a tunnel entrance on the East side of the wall. He was helping refugees escape. It is not known whether he died of his wounds.

This was the first time East German guards had refused to permit an Allied military vehicle with occupants in uniform from entering the Eastern part of the city.

Praying in School Faces More Tests

Supreme Court Will Review 'Pro' and 'Con' Decisions From Philadelphia, Maryland

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed today to take a further look at the whole question of prayers and Bible reading in public schools.

It announced it will review a decision by a three-judge federal court in Philadelphia that a Pennsylvania law requiring Bible reading in public schools violates the federal Constitution.

A decision by the Maryland Court of Appeals, upholding a Baltimore school board regulation calling for a daily opening exercise of Bible reading and recitation of The Lord's Prayer.

In its last term, the high court ruled unconstitutional a prayer which New York State authorities had directed be used in public schools.

The court held that this official prayer breached the Constitution's provision for separation of state and religion.

In the Pennsylvania case to be reviewed in this term, the special three-judge Philadelphia federal court declared that Pennsylvania "has seen fit to breach the wall between church and state" by its Bible-reading statute.

The state's attorney general, the Pennsylvania superintendent of public instruction, and the Abington Township School Board in suburban Philadelphia, appealed to the high tribunal to reverse the decision. The appeal said that to ban Bible reading in morning opening exercises in schools would be to ignore the traditions of this nation.

Psychiatric Tests Slated For Walker

Former General Released After Bond Is Posted

DALLAS Tex. (AP) — Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, who denies he is guilty of federal charges arising from riots at the University of Mississippi, will undergo psychiatric examination here this week.

The former army officer, charged with inciting an insurrection and seditious conspiracy first home to Dallas Sunday and was freed by about 200 flag-waving supporters.

He was released late Saturday from the U.S. Medical Center in Springfield, Mo., on $50,000 bond, posted by his family.

Release came only after he agreed to submit to a psychiatric examination.

Walker was jovial and talkative to the point his lawyers would allow.

"Welcome! Signs

Amid signs of "Welcome home Gen. Walker," he told his supporters. "I'm happy to be back in Texas. The air is clear, bright and wonderful."

"It was supposed to be a short trip to Mississippi, but it was extended to Missouri—much to my surprise."

During a news conference, his attorneys repeatedly advised him not to answer questions surrounding his actions at Ole Miss, where violence erupted when the federal government forced the enrollment of Negro James H. Meredith in the previously all-white school. Walker has been accused of leading rioters against U.S. marshals.

His only reference to the night rioting was that he advised students on the Oxford, Miss., campus "that nobody has come to Mississippi for any violence and no one intends any."

Asked if he was guilty of the federal charges, Walker said, "Certainly I'm not."

'We'll be in Cuba By Election Day,' Sen. Cotton Says

BEDFORD, N.H. (AP) — Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., predicted Sunday night, "We will be in Cuba before Election Day."

The Republican senator told a GOP rally: "I'll make this prediction — not for the purpose of carrying the election, I do not mean that—but, if the President is traveling out into the hinterlands and hearing how the American people feel, I predict that before election day, we will be in Cuba."

Cotton, a candidate for re-election, declared, "the ringing vital issue in this campaign is becoming Cuba."

'Must be Met at All Levels'

Wiley Points Out Educational Problems in Speech at Beloit

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., seeks reelection, said today that there is a national deficit in education and the challenge must be met by adequate support at local, state and federal levels.

Wiley in a speech prepared for a Beloit College convocation, said the nation would need 485,000 more elementary and high school teachers by 1965.

He added that more engineers, scientists, doctors and nurses also will be needed.

Planners for Democratic Gov. Nelson's campaign for the Senate said over the weekend that the emphasis will go on television advertising in prime evening hours between now and the November election in which Nelson hopes to unseat Wiley.

Aides said that it is planned to spend about $75,000, mostly for television and radio time.

Members of a Republican "truth squad" set up by the party organization, made their first stop at Waukesha today.

The GOP state chairman, Claude Jasper of Madison, announced formation of the squad of legislators Saturday night. He said it would follow Nelson on the campaign trail and point out what Jasper contends are untruthful statements made by Democrats about Wiley.

The "truth squad" issued a challenge in Nelson for a series of debates on the chief executive's tax program.

Cremation Rites Set for Soblen

LONDON (AP)—The Home Office said today the body of Soviet spy Robert Soblen will be cremated Thursday in suburban Ruislip.

Dr. Soblen, 62, was being taken in an ambulance to a New York-bound airliner in September when he swallowed a massive dose of sleeping pills. He died Sept. 11 of a brain hemorrhage at a hospital.

As a convicted spy in America he faced a life prison sentence.

Radio and TV Time Monopoly Aids De Gaulle

French Leader's Plans for Upcoming Referendum Told

Chicago Daily News Service

PARIS — President Charles de Gaulle's plans for beating France's political parties in the upcoming referendum and general election became more clear today.

His major weapons will be the monopoly of radio and television time by government spokesmen and his personal authority and prestige.

It is estimated that 14,000,000 watch TV every day in France and the figure will likely increase during the period of political excitement that lies ahead.

Plans Revealed

De Gaulle's plans were revealed by Interior Minister Roger Frey at a meeting of the Gaullist-UNR Party Sunday.

"We want a republic of citizens, not a republic of parties," Frey told the Gaullists. He added that since De Gaulle has settled the Algerian question, politicians feel they can afford to dispense with his services.

There have been protests over the government monopoly of TV time. Officials answer them by saying that political parties control 90 per cent of the press, hence do not need the radio and TV time.

The referendum, set for Oct. 28, will present voters one question. Do you want French presidents to be elected by popular vote or not?

Expects Majority

De Gaulle is expected to get a sizable majority in this vote since voters will be flattered at being offered the chance to elect presidents.

The dates for the general election have not been set. In France a general election usually is held every two years, which are generally scheduled on successive Sunday nights.

De Gaulle hopes to use the time between now and the voting to win over recalcitrant members of the middle-of-the-road Popular Democratic Party and some influential members of the moderately rightist Independent Party.

Independence For Uganda At Midnight

CHICAGO Daily News Service

MALINDI, Kenya — Uganda, an East African British dependency about the size of Minnesota, attains independence at midnight tonight.

When its black, gold and red barred flag goes up, Uganda will become the 27th African state to achieve nationhood over the last seven years.

Land-locked Uganda, which is surrounded by Sudan, Kenya, Tanganyika, Rwanda, and the Congo, stands at the source of the Nile and in the shadows of the Ruwenzori Mountains.

The raising of Uganda's flag tonight in Kololo Stadium before 40,000 spectators, will mark the highlight of nearly three weeks of celebration costing more than $1,000,000 and ranging from a glittering state ball attended by the 26-year-old Duke and Duchess of Kent representing Queen Elizabeth II to soccer matches and flying displays by jet fighters.

Exactly at midnight, bonfires will be lit on hilltops throughout the shamrock-green country discovered a century ago by the British explorer John Speke. Fireworks displays will blaze on through the night, celebrating the end of 62 years of British rule.

Tuesday, 37-year-old Prime Minister Milton Obote, lanky leader of the Uganda People's Congress will be sworn in as premier.

Romance With a Georgia Peach Magazine Will Publish Wilson's Love Letters

NEW YORK (AP) — For years, "Miss Ellie Lou," as Wilson called her, are included in the published correspondence.

Struggling Attorney

"Can you love me in my very humor? Or would you prefer to think of me as always dignified?" wrote Wilson, then 26 and a struggling Atlanta attorney, early in his courtship with the girl of 22.

"I am afraid it would kill me to be always thoughtful and sensible, dignified and decorous," he added.

At another point he wrote, "I suppose there never was a man more dependent than I am upon love and sympathy."

Just before the couple — the children of Presbyterian ministers — were married in June, 1885, Wilson appeared still not sure that his bride-to-be knew him completely.

Love Note

He was studying at Johns Hopkins University at the time ("How can a fellow in Baltimore write a lecture on Adam Smith when he's forever thinking of a girl in Georgia?") and he penned this note to his love:

"It may shock you — it ought to — to learn that I have a reputation? — amongst most of my kin and certain of my friends for being irrepressible, in select circles, as a maker of grotesque addresses from the precarious elevation of chair seats, as a wearer of all varieties of comic grimaces, as a simulator of sundry, . . . burlesque styles of voice and speech, as a lover of farces, even as a dancer of the can-can. . . .

"But you'll find out soon enough what an overgrown boy you have taken as your 'Lord and Master.'"

Expelled 'Spy' Leaves Russia

MOSCOW (AP)—Comdr. Raymond Smith, assistant U.S. naval attaché accused of espionage, left for the West today saying he is happy to get out of the Soviet Union.

"I don't think there is anybody who wouldn't be glad to leave the Soviet Union," Smith said. "But I am sorry I couldn't finish my tour of duty here."

He came to Moscow in June for a two-year assignment.

The Soviet government accused Smith of spying in Leningrad and ordered him out of the country. The U.S. State Department claimed the Russians were retaliating for the expulsion of two members of the Soviet U.N. delegation. They were accused of buying military secrets from a U.S. Navy yeoman.

Kennedy 'Needs More Democrats to Get Country Moving Again'

President Sticks to Theme During Midwest States Tour

WASHINGTON (AP)—President still not done, but we are trying Kennedy kept his political brief to do them.

"And we need members of the House and Senate who are committed, not merely to voting 'aye' and 'nay,' but participating in the legislative process, which makes it possible for this country to go again, to Baltimore for a political rally."

Local Statistics

Kennedy comes armed with local statistics, on what that state's Republican delegation has been doing to his legislation.

Minnesota Republicans in the House, he says, were 100 per cent against him on a minimum wage bill, 67 per cent against him on the bill to aid higher education, 81 per cent against him on the bill to assist chronic unemployment.

Then he winds up, as he did Saturday night, with a pitch like this:

"That is why I come here tonight, although I am not a candidate for office, asking your help on issue after issue, which will make it possible to educate your children, to find jobs for our citizens, to provide security for our older people, and to make this country the greatest country in the world, which it is, and which it must be if this world and the country are going to remain free."

Democratic Majority

This argument presents some difficulties.

1. Kennedy rarely mentions that he already has a pretty good majority of Democrats in the House and Senate. The House margin is 262 to 174; the Senate 64 to 36. He gets around this by ignoring defections and saying too many issues are settled, one way or another, by a couple of votes.

2. He passes over the fact that some Republicans support him on key issues more consistently than some Democrats.

3. Most important, though, is this: a president, no matter how great his prestige, has always had trouble transferring it to congressmen.

Gen. Walker's Contribution

There is certain to be comment from liberal quarters about the arrest and detention with psychiatric investigation of former Gen. Edwin Walker following the rioting in Mississippi. The confusion among the conservatives who flocked to the cause of such men as Walker and Robert Welch is obvious. But it should not hide the fact that the conservative point of view has validity and honesty.

The effort to discredit all conservatives by tarring with Welch's or Walker's brush has fortunately been repudiated by some liberals. Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review, has written firmly and well about the true conservative cause. Discomfort in the company of the John Birchers and the Minutemen has been shown by true conservatives.

A Change Comes to Georgia

One result of the U. S. Supreme Court's decision outlawing the unit system of voting in Georgia is the defeat of Rep. James C. Davis who has served in Congress from the 5th Georgia District since 1947. He was defeated in the Democratic primary runoff by Charles Longstreet Weltner, an Atlanta attorney, 34 years old, who lambasted Davis for his previous stands on segregation. Rep. Davis, who also was known as "Judge" Davis, has been described as a man of enormous dignity, stern and humorless. He was given to making dull speeches. It was said to be a great effort for him to smile. But he was described as a dedicated congressman and no one ever questioned his honesty.

Rep. Davis had won twice before under the county unit system although he lost the popular vote, and he would have won again if the unit system had not been outlawed by the supreme court earlier this year. But without the unit system he was helpless.

The Negro vote is unquestionably the reason for his defeat in the runoff. He trailed Weltner by 2,111 votes in the September primary and then staged a feverish campaign to save his seat in the House. Returns from 12 Negro precincts, representing 67 per cent of the Negro registration in Fulton County, gave Weltner 16,068 votes to 535 for Davis.

Georgia evidently has as open a primary as Wisconsin has for Weltner claimed

The Wallet Picking Latins

New York police have a new problem in the Latin American pickpockets who recently have invaded the city. They are so skillful that the police say they can do the impossible. The impossible for the pickpocket is to pick the trouser pocket of a seated victim. The Latins not only do it; they have been caught at it.

The New York police say the latest invaders are graduates of a school of crime run by a modern day Fagin in Bogota, Colombia. One New York pickpocket squad detective reported that his own pocket was picked by a Chilean woman while he was tracking a Colombian suspect in a crowded Broadway bus. The woman and her partner were arrested while the Colombian watched with interest and then, grinning, left the bus.

Det. Patrick O'Brien, who is known as "El Gavilan" (The Hawk) by the thieves because of his sharp eye, recently spotted two young men boarding a Broadway bus. The pair approached a well dressed man. One sat beside him and the other took a seat a few feet away. Within seconds, however, the man at a little distance

Supporting the President

President Kennedy now has the authority to call to active duty 150,000 service reservists should the international situation demand it. Both houses of Congress approved his request by overwhelming votes. Congress did so realizing that at the moment it was a necessary measure, particularly now that the National Guardsmen and reservists mobilized a year ago have been released from service.

But we question whether more permanent steps should not be taken to meet future crises.

Most of the reserves who would be called under such authority are those who have seen little prior service, most of them having only six months of active duty training. They would be used primarily as fillers in existing military units. And most of them would be of little value until they

For a while it appeared that the slogan makers and the wild-eyed might have more appeal. Even in the Fox Cities area more people came to hear the cries of "investigate the State department" and "Get the Reds out of UNESCO" from speakers with valid and intelligent criticism of liberal policies. But in the long run we think the American people have profited by the experience and will look more carefully at causes and slogans and advocates of various policies.

Nothing should shake us up so much as the picture of a former major general in the United States Army, still backed by fanatical defenders, leading a charge of teen-agers against federal marshals in Mississippi.

that in the primary he was hurt by Republican moves to enlist Negro support to elect Mr. Davis because they would have a better chance of defeating him in the November general election. After the primary, Weltner apparently succeeded in convincing the Negroes that it would be wiser for them to support him rather than to take a chance on electing L. J. O'Callaghan, the Republican nominee in the November election. Davis, who had campaigned on the racial issue many times in the past, tried to avoid the subject this time but Weltner would not let him duck the issue. Davis was forced to admit he had belonged to the Ku Klux Klan in the 1920s. He also admitted that during the school integration crisis in Atlanta he spoke to a racist group, Georgians Unwilling to Surrender, which was set up to defeat the federal court integration orders. Atlanta schools have since been peacefully desegregated.

Quite obviously a big change is coming to Georgia. Congressmen from Georgia in the future will not only represent the urban communities but also the Negroes. The change will be felt not only in Congress but also in the Georgia legislature. For the first time in many long years representatives from Georgia to the Congress will represent the people. If it is a good thing for the people to be represented as provided in the Constitution of the United States then this will be an improvement.

moved forward and lurched against his partner who in turn jostled the intended victim.

O'Brien, on the alert, rushed forward and seized the pair. The partner had the victim's wallet concealed in a folded newspaper.

Later O'Brien said, "I had to see it to believe it. I've collared a lot of smooth operators, some of them real artists, but not one of them could have picked that man's wallet while he was seated." It is reported that a number of South American Consulates are concerned about the problem and have reported the situation to their respective law enforcement agencies. In the meantime, however, an American pickpocket has admitted that his Latin competition is good but he says, "This used to be a nice quiet business. They're going to arouse the public, much less the whiz cops (pickpocket squad detectives). We'll suffer for their crimes. But you gotta hand it to 'em."

But most people carrying wallets know better. It's not necessary to hand it to them. It's necessary to watch sharply or they'll take it.

had received at least another six months of work.

It strikes us that the authority is intended mainly to impress the Russians with our determination to meet a crisis in Berlin or Cuba forcibly. As a practical military measure it is of doubtful value.

There is no evidence that the Berlin or Cuban situations or others around the world will improve in the foreseeable future. We need a new evaluation of the size of military forces we might need to meet potential crises. And then steps should be taken to increase the size of the permanent forces through enlistments and the draft to fill that need.

The constant threat of being called to active duty for international political purposes is demoralizing to the National Guard and reservists.

Walker Was Way Off Base

Gen. Edwin Walker was way off base in his fumbling attempts to indoctrinate the troops, but — give the devil his due — he focused public attention on the appalling neglect of the GI's political education.

Now happily the Defense Department says it will eliminate this shortcoming and launch a new far-reaching troop information program. According to reports, it will embrace "democracy vs. communism," and let us hope it will, in Sen. Stennis' words, "give our military people something to fight for and not merely something to fight against."

It is widely acknowledged that the average American man in uniform lacks any clear-cut ideas about why he is in uniform. The Defense department cannot be blamed with this knowledge gap, but it can do something about it.

This has been so touchy and controversial an area that the maximum effort heretofore has been the lukewarm Troop Information Education sessions. Its

United Nations Outgrowing Facilities; May Leave N. Y.

BY MILT FREUDENHEIM
Chicago Daily News Service

UNITED NATIONS — Likelihood of the United Nations moving all or part of its major operations out of the United States is growing, many diplomats here believe.

This goal, shared by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and anti-U. N. rightists in the west, could be as near as 13 months from today.

Officials here are giving serious study to the possibility of holding the 1963 session of the seam-bursting U. N. General Assembly in Geneva, Switzerland.

Like any gangling teen-ager with empty pockets and clothes outgrown, the 17-year-old world body is suffering a combination cost and growth squeeze.

While making the decisive leap from adolescence to maturity, the youthful U. N. may find it necessary to leave home, its glass palace in New York.

May be Temporary

The departure may be temporary, for one year while $10,000,000 of expansion building is completed here.

Or, it could be permanent, if considerable support for spending the money on a new home elsewhere prevails.

Morocco has been getting support from African and Asian delegates for moving the assembly and U. N. political offices to a new U. N. compound to be built in Tangier.

Presumably $10,000,000 for buildings would go far in the once wide-open Mediterranean port city whose hotels emptied when independent Morocco shut down free city privileges and vice resorts there.

The main pressure for moving the U. N., at least temporarily, results from its phenomenal growth.

The assembly hall near the East River was built for 70 delegations, now is crammed with members from 104 nations.

Rated as sure additions this year are seven others:

Algeria, Rwanda and Burundi from Africa, Trinidad and Jamaica from the Caribbean are slated to clear the security council shortly before the assembly opens Sept. 18.

Guiana in Africa and (British) Guiana in South America also are expected.

But the parade won't stop there. Kenya is expected next year, to be followed eventually by Samoa, Zanzibar, probably the two Rhodesias and Nyasaland.

Portuguese-ruled Angola and Mozambique are seen as inevitable, but late, arrivals here. Kuwait, Germany, Korea, Viet Nam also qualify.

By cutting down press seats (and moving some press into visitors' sections), cramped room for 112 delegations has been made in the main hall.

The $10,000,000 expansion would rearrange the main meeting rooms for 120 or more nations. Two new meeting rooms would be needed to accommodate the full-membership major assembly committees.

Some insiders say the bill could run to $25,000,000 if needed expansion of dining and lounge facilities were added.

Heavily in debt on Congo and Mideast peace-keeping expenses, the U. N. will be hard-put to find cash. But like the American Congress, it is believed likely to be generous where its personal comfort is involved.

The U. N. came to New York when the Rockefeller family donated the land and Washington gave a long-term loan for the building costs.

Politically, postwar world leaders wished to avoid the League of Nations' experience, which the United States never joined.

N. Y. Costs High

The stay in the skyscraper city has been no honeymoon, however.

The high cost of maintaining $200,000 embassies, limousines and even household help at New York prices burdens every U. N. member.

African diplomats — now representing 31 of the 104 member nations — complain of scrapes with racial overtones with landlords and police.

Parking ticket immunity for a couple of thousand diplomats is a minor source of two-way friction, in a traffic-snarled city.

The Africans, super-sensitive about the shortness of their modern history as independent nations, would delight in a move to Tangier, North Africa.

Khrushchev has offered Leningrad, former capital of the czars. The offer isn't taken seriously in view of Soviet reluctance to let the world into its "closed society."

Many diplomats would prefer Paris or Rome, closer to home for both Europe and Africa than the two Rhodesias and Nyasaland.

New York. But the European cities are not asking for the U. N. or offering to subsidize a move.

The one-year stay in Geneva could be eliminated if repairs are made while next year's assembly is meeting. But some experts guess the costs could "double" if New York overtime wages pyramided for night work.

Another plan could cut U. N. delegations from 10 down to five seats each and revamp the assembly hall to squeeze them together.

Jewish Population

NEW YORK (AP) — Jewish population in the United States is estimated at 5,510,000 at the close of 1961, 20,000 less than the previous year, by the American Jewish Year Book. World Jewish population is put at 12,500,000, about 3.7 million in Europe, 2 million in Asia, and 1,936,000 in Israel. More than 40 per cent of American Jews live in the New York metropolitan area, the report said.

Looking Backward

Rebels Routed at Corinth, Miss.

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Motor for Oct. 9, 1862.

"After two days of fighting against an army under Union Gen. Rosecrans at Corinth, Miss., a force under Confederate Gen. Van Dorn retired to Holly Springs. Close to 5,000 men were killed and wounded during the battle."

Corinth — (Oct. 4) — The enthusiasm of the army for Rosecrans is boundless. Gen. Rosecrans had but 12,000 men, the rebels about 30,000.

The rebels broke Rosecrans' centre, and came pell-mell into Corinth, yelling like demons. Behind a knoll, near the public square, several batteries were planted, loaded with double charges of grape and canister, which the enemy did not perceive.

They crowded the square full with dense masses of troops, and when they were as thick as they could stand, the batteries opened on them with terrific effect, at a short distance piling the square with heaps of their dead and wounded.

Utterly astounded, they broke and ran, our troops charging on them with the most terrible energy.

Altogether we have 2,000 prisoners, including nearly 100 officers besides the wounded. Three thousand rebels were killed. Our loss was 350 killed and 1,200 wounded.

25 YEARS AGO

Kuehn in Command Of Republican Party

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — There are no formal training courses for politicians. The man who aspires to the governorship of Wisconsin, for example, typically learns the trade of vote-seeking and winning on his own. He takes the plunge and sinks or swims.

It is remarkable in retrospect, however, that so many of the party leaders of this state who entered the contests as amateurs by all normal definitions have managed to become proficient and won the right to the title of leadership. A current example is afforded by Philip Kuehn, the Republican nominee for governor.

When Kuehn ran for governor the first time, only two years ago, he had never sought a vote for himself in his comparatively young life. But he showed a gift for campaigning and self-expression. He gathered about him an effective corps of friends and like-minded younger Republicans. He made a good run, and managed to throw a considerable scare into the popular Democratic incumbent, Gaylord Nelson. He earned a second nomination, under the rules by which politicians live, and won it this year by a convincing margin.

Last Tuesday he stood up before the platform convention of his party, including many legislators and others of far more experience and seasoning than he has had, and accepted with poise and confidence the leadership role that was given to him in the primary election.

COMMAND

The governorship is the top office in Wisconsin politics. A nomination for the governorship by a political party, it therefore follows, is the most important decision it has to make in the biennial election years. There were men in the platform convention hall who don't know Kuehn well and who doubtless were examining him critically as he walked to the rostrum of the state senate chamber and uttered what was to be the keynote of the day, and perhaps, of the intense struggle with the Democratic party for the rule of the state capital.

The speech was carefully prepared, and skillfully delivered. Kuehn used no blatant words. They were not necessary. The convention took the hint and wore into the platform a tax plank of Kuehn's composition, consistent with his record and his ideas, and covering what is manifestly the only important issue in the gubernatorial campaign, in the sense that all other issues derive from it and are subsidiary to it.

A timid or an equivocal politician — and there are those in the Republican party as in all parties — might have flinched. For it is perfectly evident that there are hazards in the position Kuehn has taken, which amounts to a position of campaigning for the general sales tax, however it is adorned with modifications and exemptions.

No politician, given a choice, will campaign for any kind of a tax. The voter doesn't like the idea of more taxes, or even the talk of more taxes.

THERE ARE PERILS

The position contains some special perils because the evolution of the campaign has permitted John W. Reynolds, his opponent, to take a stance keyed on opposition. Reynolds, of course, stands for painfully heavier income taxes, on the record. But the dominant talk of the last two years in state politics has involved the sales tax, and Reynolds now carries the banner against it and is getting more attention for that fact than for his alternative taxing program.

The November balloting will show whether there is sufficient understanding of the tax revision issue, the issue of comparative state taxation policies, and the hungry demands of the basic services for great gobs of new tax money. There is nothing sure about it.

Yet Kuehn will be able to accept the result, whatever it is, with the knowledge that he has taken the responsible position, and one that sooner or later, whatever the verdict of the electorate next month, will be vindicated by legislative events.

Public Workers To be Contacted For United Fund

From The New York Times

Congress has just passed a bill to authorize $900 million in Federal spending on public works during the current fiscal year. Its avowed intention is to counter unemployment and stimulate economic activity, but the bill is still redolent of the pork barrel.

The Administration has sought a new flexible approach to public works, one that would give the president sturdy authority to accelerate or restrain spending based on prevailing economic conditions. It felt that it could cut down on waste and make the impact of the public works projects more positive, by long-term planning.

This appeared a commendable experiment, but the Senate insisted on following its traditional pork-barrel approach. The present emergency public works bill has little in common with the administration's proposal. Congress is against any change in the pork barrel system, which is aimed at producing votes rather than jobs.

Lawrence Says

Can Governor Be Imprisoned For Contempt?

Mississippi Crisis Raised Important Legal Question

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The Mississippi story—legally speaking—is just beginning to unfold one of its most important issues. Every state in the union could be affected. For the U.S. Court of Appeals, Fifth Circuit, has really raised in the case of Gov. Barnett of Mississippi the question of whether the governor of a state can be removed from office by court order on a contempt charge and subjected to a jail sentence, thus interfering with the exercise of his duties as the chief executive of a state.

For decades past the principle accepted by the federal and state courts has been that a president of the United States or the governor of a state can be removed from office only by the impeachment process. If the rule is reversed now by the Supreme Court of the United States—assuming such a reversal will choose to hear the case at all—it would be possible for a president or a governor to be removed from office by a court order on a contempt charge and subjected to a jail sentence, thus interfering with the exercise of his duties as the chief executive of a state.

It so happened that these issues were discussed in July 1961 when a U.S. Senate committee, investigating gambling practices in Florida, issued a subpoena ordering Gov. Fuller Warren of Florida to appear and answer questions. Mr. Warren filed a comprehensive brief covering all the legal points, and, as a consequence, the senate committee did not press for the enforcement of the subpoena.

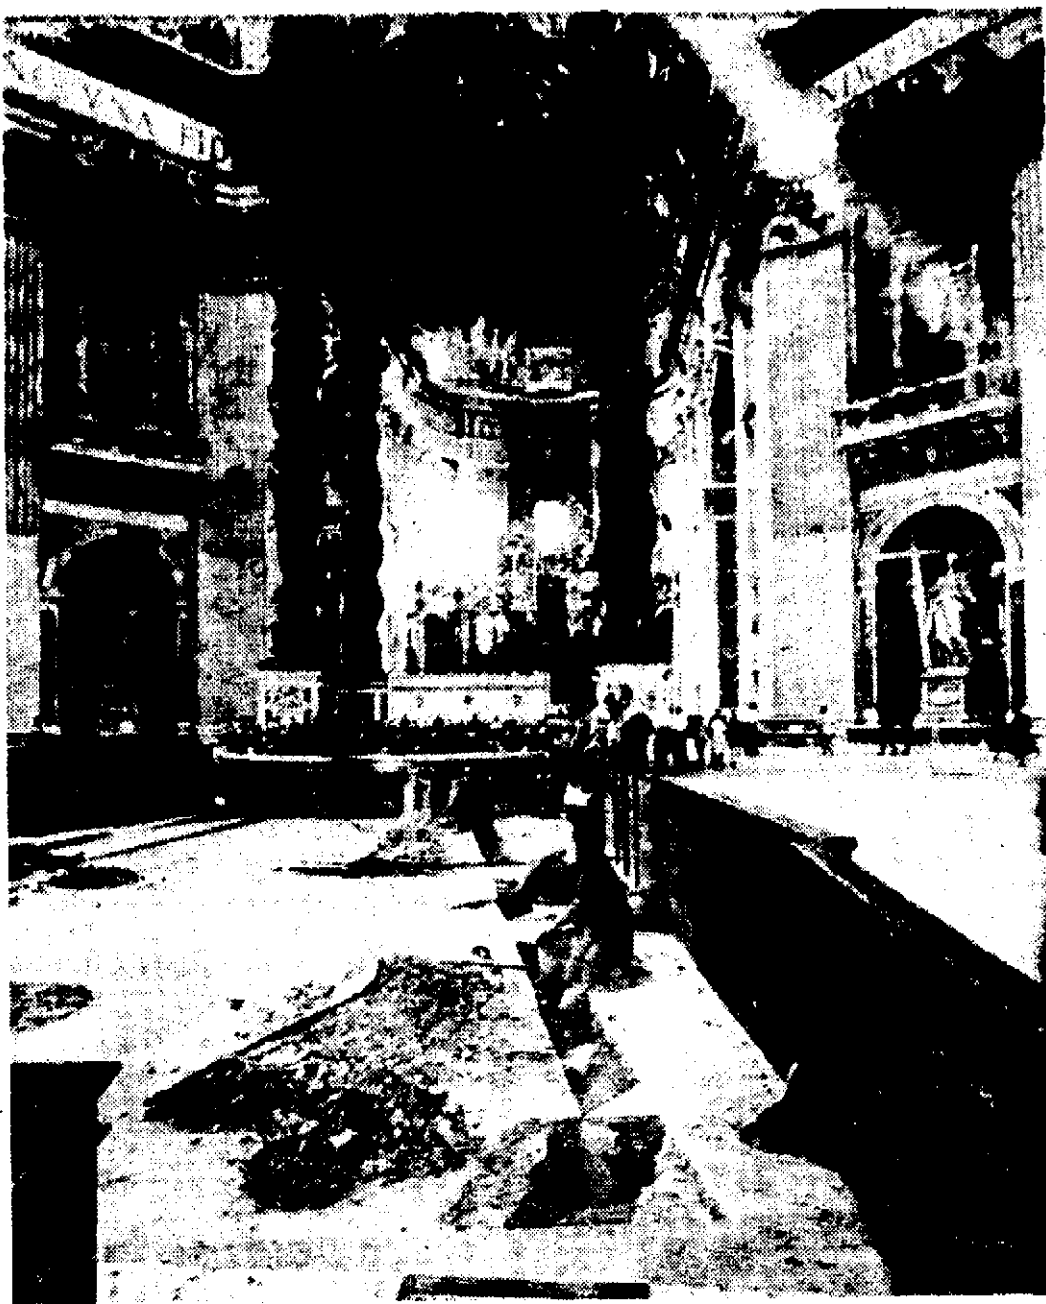

Past rulings indicate that, while a governor may ignore a court order so far as his personal appearance in court is concerned, nobody else in the state government can do so. Hence, a court can enjoin one or more state officials from carrying out any illegal act even if it is ordered officially by a governor. As for the governor, however, he is himself immune from arrest and punishment, the brief contends, because no court can remove a governor or interfere with his right to remain in office for the term for which he is elected. He can be removed only by impeachment by the state legislature as provided in the constitution of that state.

The brief points out that it doesn't make any difference whether the court order is served on a governor as an official or as an individual. It is contended that the court can issue such an order any time, but a governor cannot remove a governor or interfere with his right to remain in office for the term for which he is elected. He can be removed only by impeachment by the state legislature as provided in the constitution of that state.

Jefferson Refused

When President Thomas Jefferson refused to respond to a federal court subpoena, Chief Justice Marshall of the Supreme Court from office only by the impeachment process. If the rule is reversed now by the Supreme Court of the United States—assuming such a reversal will choose to hear the case at all—it would be possible for a president or a governor to be removed from office by a court order on a contempt charge and subjected to a jail sentence, thus interfering with the exercise of his duties as the chief executive of a state.

Such order ought not to be made against the executive of the state, because it might bring contempt, but that his action is cause why he shouldn't be held in contempt. If he were adjudged in contempt, he could then be imprisoned and thus removed from the office to which he had been without order. If he thinks it to be his official duty, in protecting the rights and dignity of his office, he will not comply, even if directed by an order. And, in his case, the court would hardly entertain proceedings to compel him by adjudging him in contempt. It will be presumed that the chief magistrate intends no such thing. The brief filed by Gov. Warren of Florida said: "No committee of the Congress of the United States, nor the Congress itself, has the power to compel the governor of a sovereign state to answer a subpoena and go to Washington, D.C., to testify concerning matters within his knowledge as governor. Recognize Power

"To recognize the power of a congressional committee to compel the governor of a sovereign state to leave his state and appear before such committee in the nation's capital is to recognize the power of such a committee, at any moment it may elect, to determine whether or not the governor shall perform the duties of his office . . .

"The recognition of such power in Congress is to admit that the power lies in one department of the federal government to utterly destroy the entire concept of dual sovereignty. . . . While the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans has deferred until October 12 the hearing on whether the governor of Mississippi has "purged" himself of alleged contempt, it looks as if the Department of Justice itself may be backing away from the test. If the proceedings are dropped, the episode will nevertheless remain as a species of potential blackmail that could be used upon occasion to enable the U.S. Department of Justice to intimidate the governor of any state.

Investigate Murder in Dodge County

JUNEAU (AP) — Authorities from three counties have begun an investigation to find out who shot Woodrow Burr, 24, of Gresham, and left his bullet-riddled body in a wooded area near Knowles in Dodge County.

Burr's body was discovered Saturday by two ten year-old boys who were in the woods looking for colored leaves. He had been shot six times.

Relatives said Burr was last seen in Milwaukee Sept. 17 while visiting family friends. His car was found in Milwaukee several days after his disappearance.

Dodge County Sheriff Orle Uttech said there was no doubt that Burr was a murder victim. He said Milwaukee and Shawano county authorities would work with him in the investigation. Burr was an auto mechanic with his brother at a shop in Gresham.

Uttech said it was the consensus of the investigators that the body was brought to the wooded area two miles northwest of Knowles by the slayer. He said no weapon had been located, but he indicated that authorities would comb the entire area.

Freedom Church Members to Share In World Prayer

FREEDOM — The members of the Freedom Moravian Church will participate in a world-wide chain-of-prayer Wednesday at a special evening service.

The Freedom Moravian Church shares responsibility on this day with two other Mid-west congregations.

The Chain - of - Prayer started Jan. 1 among missions to the Alaskan eskimos and will end on Dec. 31 in the mission congregations of Southwest Africa. It was taken up in the intervening time by churches in Europe, on both sides of the Iron Curtain and churches in England, Tibet, South America, Central America, Africa and the islands of the Caribbean Sea.

Its purpose is to support the total life of the World-Wide Moravian Church and the mission of spreading the gospel throughout the world.

The special service will be led by the pastor, the Rev. Erwin E. Boettcher, joined by volunteer participants to present prayer petitions for various causes.

Four Treated After Auto Crash Near Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Four persons were taken to Clintonville Community Hospital with cuts and bruises when their car missed a stop sign at the junction of U.S. 45 and County Trunk G. north of Marion, at 1:20 a.m. Sunday. The car hit a high bank on the south side of 45 after crossing the highway.

Treated and released from the hospital were the driver of the car, Daniel J. Watter, 24, Leopolis, and his brother, Rolland Watter, 30. Two other passengers hospitalized are Peggy Krueger, 17, and her sister, Pamela Krueger, 15, both of Marion.

The accident was investigated by Patrolman Dale Perry of the State Traffic patrol and Marion Police Chief Jack Betow. The 1956 model car was a total loss.

Kennedy's Record With Congress Good, Bad

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's campaign to get more Democrats elected to Congress in November raises a natural question: How did he do with this present one run by Democrats?

The answer has to be mixed. In this Congress, where Democrats far outnumber Republicans, hardly any big item he asked got through unaltered. Yet, over-all Congress put through a number of his major requests. It also killed some major ones.

It has been a tardy, dawdling Congress. Until a few weeks ago Kennedy seemed due for a robust flattening. Then, with members anxious to get home for the elections, Congress picked up speed and did important work.

Longest Session It is still here, though, winding up, after the longest session since 1951 in the Korean War. That year it quit Oct. 20.

In a democratic society like this it would be astonishing, perhaps lethal, if Congress were so submissive to the executive it gave him precisely and without question everything he asked.

This one didn't with Kennedy. To get much or most of what he wanted, he had to accept compromise measures.

In a very broad sense Kennedy handled both houses of Congress, not like the scrappy and head-knocking President Truman, but like President Eisenhower.

Big Holes

He leaned over backward to avoid personal conflicts even with those in the Capitol who were wrecking some of his programs totally or tearing big holes in them.

But his administration put in a lot of work behind the scenes, with his aides working on individual members of Congress, sometimes with pathetic results.

Rep. Wilbur Mills, Arkansas Democrat and chairman of the very powerful House Ways and Means Committee, was totally against Kennedy's medical care program for the aged. That was it. The program died.

There were efforts Kennedy could have made—like broadcasts to try to rally popular support for his program, hoping the people would put pressure on senators and representatives. He did little of this.

He tried it once on the medical care program but talked off the cuff and the talk was far from his best.

It's true, as he's saying now in his campaigning around the country, that the Republicans in Congress repeatedly harpooned many of his programs.

But so did a lot of his own party members, particularly Southern Democrats who teamed up with Republicans again and again to frustrate him.

If the Democrats had stuck together, voting as a party, they could have drowned the outnumbered Republicans.

Besides medical care, two other major Kennedy programs were simply slaughtered: his proposal for a new department of urban affairs and housing and his request for federal aid to colleges.

School aid. Last year Congress ignored his program of federal aid to public (but not Catholic) schools although it can hardly be said he worked overtime for that one.

Kennedy fared most perfectly in his requested authority for the government to buy up to $100 million in U.N. bonds to overcome a U.N. deficit, mostly from its expenses in the Congo.

His biggest, perhaps most far-reaching success came with congressional approval of a broad new trade and tariff-cutting program he will need in dealing with Europe's Common Market. The program had wide bipartisan support in and out of Congress.

This was also a prime example of how he had to compromise to get most of what he wanted. Over his opposition Congress in the trade bill put restrictions on trade with Yugoslavia and Poland.

Compromise Here were other major programs, in each of which Kennedy had to accept some compromise:

Foreign aid — The House approved a compromise of $3,928,900,000, a cut of $1,032,400,000 below his original request. The Senate was expected to send the bill to the White House today.

Taxes—Kennedy asked a 7 per cent tax credit for business firms for investment in new equipment. Congress gave him that. But it turned down pleas for withholding the income tax on dividends and interest.

Farm bill—The strict-control farm bill he wanted was tossed aside. Congress finally gave him a farm bill much short of the strict controls he had in mind.

Your Money's Worth

Newspaper Facing Big Price Squeeze

BY SYLVIA PORTER

You, who are paying me the honor of reading this report now, probably think of your newspaper in terms of such people as me—meaning to you this newspaper "is" its reporters, columnists, editors, cartoonists. If you have a logical mind, you therefore probably also assume that we're among the most expensive items on this paper's cost sheet.

Porter

If your logical mind assumes this about us, you are wrong.

While we who write and draw fill a large percentage of this newspaper's pages, we are way down on the cost scale. To put it succinctly at the start, the cost of the whole editorial operation on the average daily U.S. newspaper accounts for less than 14 per cent of its total operating expenses—and editorial includes not only us but also the type-writers we use, the paper we write on, the pencils we chew.

By far the biggest single cost item on the large city newspapers is the newsprint on which we are printed. Overall, the giant chunk of your paper's money goes to put us who write and draw on that newsprint—in short, to turn out the product you are holding this minute.

Oct. 14, opens National Newspaper Week, and spurred by this I called at headquarters of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association to inquire about the financial anatomy of the profession in which I have spent my lentire adult life. Many of the facts I gathered startled me, and I'll wager they'll startle you. Newspapers are big-time business in this country to an extent, few outside or even inside the field realize. In 1961 alone, you and I every day bought a record 59,261,464 daily and every Sunday newspaper. For these papers we and the people of Canada spent an enormous $18 billion, while advertisers also spent an all-time peak of $3.6 billion in them to sell us their products. It's obvious that TV has made inroads on advertising in newspapers, but advertisers still spend far more in newspapers than in any other media—31.9 per cent a year at latest reporting date going for newspaper ads against 13.6 per cent going into TV, 7.8 per cent into magazines, 5.8 per cent into radio.

Big-time though it is and so intimate a part of the daily lives of tens of millions, of us, the fact is that the newspaper business today is in the worst cost squeeze of its history. In every year since World War II—with the exceptions only of 1935 and 1939—expenses of daily newspapers across the country have climbed more than their revenues. Last year, the chilling average for all daily newspapers coverage for all daily newspapers was, expenses up 4.8 per cent, total incomes up 0.4 per cent.

Key Factor Of course, a key factor has been the steady climb in paychecks of all who work on newspapers, but the wage-salary story actually is only one part of the tale. The fierce squeeze also has come in other areas. The price of newsprint—the biggest single cost item—has soared from $63 a ton at World War II's end to a base price of $135 a ton now.

The cost of mechanically producing a paper has skyrocketed across-the-board. As just one illustration, a manually operated machine for setting type (a linotype) cost less than $10,000 in the early 1940s. The modern high-speed tape-operated machine in use today costs $24,000.

Here is the financial anatomy of an average daily newspaper which will dramatize where the squeeze lies. It is based on the compilations of the authoritative trade publication "Editor & Publisher":

Mechanical production of the paper 22.55
Paper and ink 21.53
Administration, building, operation 21.51
All editorial 13.72
Getting circulation for paper 11.49
Getting advertising for paper 8.82
Despite record newspaper circulation, despite record dollars spent for newspaper advertising, the financial pinch is brutal. Warns Stanford Smith, general manager of the ANPA, "This situation cannot go on indefinitely without undermining our free press and thereby endangering the fundamentals of our democracy." Norbert O'Connor, J. C. Grimes, Max Nussinoff, E. L. Steiglitz and Roy Baitenger.

Driver Hurt On U. S. 41 Cyril Klarner, 30, 725 W. Elsie St., was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital about noon today after he received injuries in an accident at U.S. 41 and Spencer Road.

Klarner's car collided with a truck going east on Spencer Road. The impact pushed the car off the road where it rolled over twice. Klarner was thrown out of the car. The name of the uninjured truck driver was not known immediately. Klarner was taken to the hospital by Larry's Ambulance Service.

Went to England Authorities Checking Death Of Former Appleton Woman

The unexpected death of a 45-year-old Appleton woman in London, England is being investigated by authorities today.

Word was received here through the U.S. Consulate's office at Washington, D. C. that Miss Holly Williams, daughter of Mrs. Elia Williams, 616 1/2 N. Meade street, was found dead on Oct. 4.

The state department is cooperating with relatives and local officials to have the body brought back to Appleton for burial. No details on the cause of death were immediately available.

Charles J. Williams, Chicago, a brother, said that Miss Williams went to London about three months ago to marry an Englishman whom she had met about 10 years ago. Williams said the man, identified as Michael Blair of London, had sent for his sister and that she made the trip by plane.

Relatives said authorities are attempting to contact Blair. Described as 44 or 45 years old, an Englishman is reported to be in the real estate business in England.

Miss Williams was a writer, according to her brother. The last contact relatives had with Miss Williams was last week when she called her sister in California and indicated she needed assistance.

Busy Fall Schedule Starts For OSC Marching Titans

OSHKOSH — The Oshkosh State College Marching Titans, 110 strong, will make several appearances within the next few weeks, including a trip to Green Bay to play a half-time program during a Packer contest, according to Director Thomas E. Neice.

Drum Major Gary Markgraf, West Bend, will lead the Marching Titans in a kick-off parade for the United Fund Drive in Oshkosh Friday.

Saturday the band will follow the Titan football team to the Whitewater State College homecoming to take part in half-time ceremonies.

At Packers Game
On Oct. 19 the band will be active in the Oshkosh State College homecoming, beginning with a parade.

Packer fans will see the Titans on Sunday, Nov. 18, when they perform during half-time of the Packer-Colt game. By that Worry of FALSE TEETH Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Would a long disability cripple you financially?

A serious accident or long-term illness is bad enough in itself. Money troubles only make things worse. What would you do, for instance, if you were disabled and your income suddenly stopped for weeks, months, even years?

To help you guard against such dire financial problems, New York Life has income protection plans of special interest to the business or professional man whose income depends on his earning power. These plans provide an assured monthly income; in some cases as much as $750 if you are disabled and unable to work. Should severe illness leave you totally disabled, payments may continue even up to age 65, depending on the plan you select. In the event of a disabling accident, you may even collect for life.

One of the extremely valuable features of these plans is this guarantee: once the policy is properly in force, there can be no restriction or reduction in benefits. And your premium can never be increased.

Right now is the best time for you to guard against the loss of income from disability. For further information on income protection plans contact your New York Life Agent or send in the coupon below.

Jaycees and Wives Hold Party in Hawaiian Scene Saturday Evening

It was luau time Saturday evening for members of the Jaycees and their wives. Authentic Hawaiian food was served at the party and dance, held at the 41 Bowl.

Bright shirts, flowered muu-muus and straw hats were donned for the occasion. Murals of tropical scenes decorated the walls, and palm trees provided an island atmosphere.

Roger Dieball was social chairman, assisted by Mrs. Theodore Schuh and Mrs. Thomas Schiltz. Mrs. Gerald Schoepke was decorations chairman, aided by Mrs. Ken Navine, Mrs. Dennis Herrling, Mrs. Roger Dieball and Mrs. Floyd Strelow.

A Mural Depicting an Hawaiian scene formed the backdrop for dancing Saturday evening at the 41 bowl. Above are Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Strelow, decked out in island garb for the occasion. At left, helping themselves to an icy glass of punch, are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Schoepke. (Post-Crescent Photos)

A Sparkling waterfall, set on lush green tropical grass and shaded by palms provided an island touch to the party held by members of the Jaycees and their wives Saturday. Above are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ulman. At left, enjoying some of the Hawaiian food in an informal dining setting are Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dieball, social chairmen.

Smudges on Wall Necessitates Man Switching Hair-Dressing

Y ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: I suppose I should be thankful my husband doesn't drink, play the horse or chase women, but he has one fault that drives me crazy. He leans on things. There are grease marks from his head all over the walls of our lovely home. He enjoys reading in bed so there are ugly grease marks on my silk-tufted headboard. Last week he came into the kitchen to talk to me. He leaned on the wallpaper and made an ugly mark. I got mad and told him if he had to lean to go down to the basement and lean on the cinder-blocks. He said I was becoming unreasonable and crotchety in my old age. I'm only 48. Any suggestions will be welcome. — Like Things Nice

Dear Like: Surprise your husband with a greaseless hair-dressing. (No more of that greasy kid stuff.)

And when you redecorate, consider washable wallpaper. Meanwhile, stop nagging the poor guy and be thankful he's not out-leaving on some blonde.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been taking piano lessons for four years. I don't hate the piano the way some kids do, but I'm not exactly nuts about it either. In other words it's O.K. and I play just like any other kid who has had four year's worth of piano lessons.

The problem is my father. Whenever we have company he asks me to play a few numbers. It is very embarrassing because some of the people I have to play for have kids who are younger than I am and they play ten times better than I do.

How can I get out of playing the piano for company without getting into a battle with my father? Please give me some help. I am desperate. — No Van Clyburn

Dear No: Welcome to The Club. I was a charter member of this noble band of young sufferers. — only with me it was the violin instead of the piano.

Take my word for it, Pal. There's no way you can get out of it and remain a member of the family in good standing. Just tell yourself that nobody expects perfection. Do your best then forget it. The person you are really trying to please is your father. And for whatever it's worth, let me assure you that under these conditions love is not only blind, it's also deaf.

DEAR ANN LANDERS. The letter from Sal (the gal who had back-zipper trouble) reminded me of the two lovely dresses I tore before someone taught me a zipper trick.

Get a 36-inch piece of string and tie the ends together. Put this "loop" through a safety pin. (It is now 18 inches long.)

Fasten the pin on the small hole in the zipper-slide. You now have the zipper attached to the string which you can toss over

Tips Save Time in Cleaning

It's time for fall housecleaning. Do it the easy way, one room at a time.

Here are ten easy ways to get things done.

1. Sofas, chairs — slip covers should be cleaned for heavy winter use. If you launder them yourself, put them back on while they're still slightly damp — they'll fit better.

2. Wood furniture — try polishing with a rag in each hand. You'll be pleased at how much faster you can get the job done.

3. Mirrors, picture glass, windows — use a sudsless cleaner to avoid soap or streaks.

4. Moldings, venetian blinds, mattresses — vacuum these for quickest cleaning.

New Shelf Lining

5. Rugs — vacuum thoroughly before shampooing.

6. Kitchen shelves — it's time to wash them and put down fresh paper linings.

7. Bathroom tile — try an old toothbrush for scrubbing crevices.

8. Kitchen floor — a little vinegar in the cleaning water will give extra power in removing stubborn dirt and grease.

9. Chrome kitchen furniture — after cleaning, try waxing it — this prevents rust.

10. Sink, bathtub, other porcelain surfaces — give them a thorough cleaning, checking for stains your shoulder after you get the dress on.

All back zippers start low enough so you can give them a little start. Use the string to finish the job, then remove the pin and the string.

When taking off the dress, again fasten the pin to the little hole in the zipper-slide and gently pull it down. It never fails to work for me. — O. City

Dear O. City: Many readers sent homey hints on how to handle back zippers but thank you for submitting the most practical suggestion. Nonetheless, I doubt that the pin and string will ever replace the Man.

Bid Foe's Suit to Cue

This week we discuss bidding the enemy's suit. Since you seldom want to play at an opponent's bid suit your cue-bid in the enemy's suit is usually made for another purpose.

In this case North shows slam ambitions by bidding two spades. If North really had length and first and show the spade control later. The opening bidder should usually move toward slam if he has a full opening bid outside of the enemy's suit. In this case South makes his move by bidding four clubs.

From here on nothing would stop North from reaching slam. When South slows down by bidding four hearts North can afford

South dealer. Both sides vulnerable. NORTH: None. K 10 8 7 3. A K J 6. 9 8 4 3. WEST: EAST: A K J 10 4. Q 7 6 5 2. 6. 5 2. 10 9 7 3. Q 8. K J 5. 10 7 6 2.

South should sacrifice at six spades if he trusts the opponents. West would go down only three, and his honors would reduce the penalty to 700 points. This is better than allowing South to score 1,430 points for six hearts bid and made.

Still, South might misplay the hand at six hearts. West doesn't want to give up 700 points if there's a fair chance of scoring a plus of 100 points by keeping quiet.

South should ruff the first spade, draw one trump, and cash both top diamonds without trying a finesse. When the queen of diamonds happens to drop South is home.

strength in spades he would doubt for penalties.

The cue-bid guarantees control of spades (usually ace or void), would get back with a trump strong support for the opener's and lead his last diamond. This suit and substantial side strength, would bring in the twelfth trick. If North lacked fine heart support he would bid his own suit.

South would discard his queen of clubs on dummy's last diamond. If the diamonds break badly, South falls back on the club finesse.

As the cards lie, if South tries a normal diamond finesse he will probably go down.

Daily Question. Partner opens with one club. The next player bids one spade, and you hold: S. None H. K 10 8 7 3. D. A K J 6. C. 9 8 4 3.

Answer: Bid two hearts. Your club support is not strong enough for a cue-bid of two spades. Besides, your partner may have a junky holding in clubs.

PET DOCTOR

By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.

Q. Our 13 year old male cat has had a skin disease for many months. Is there anything you can tell us that might help? Dr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Badt, Cleveland, Ohio.

A. Skin diseases in cats, particularly older cats, can be very complex. If not caused by external parasites, they can be internal in origin. It may be an allergy or hormone deficiency. It may be caused by a lack of some vital nutrient or vitamin. Sometimes it is necessary to run a long series of experimental tests to find the cause. The total cost is often beyond what the average cat owner wants to spend on his pet. Considerable research has been done by veterinary dermatologists at the University of Penn-

It is said that beauty is more than skin deep. And where the skin itself is concerned, that certainly is true.

The skin is composed of more layers than are visible. What you see is only the surface, the epidermis. Beneath it lies the derma which houses the nerve ends. Then comes the subdermis, a fatty layer, containing sweat glands, lymph glands and hair follicles. Between and between lie cells of pigment that supply the complexion with its color.

The proper functioning of each layer contributes to your general well-being as well as an attractive appearance. Consequently those who are careless about tending the skin face jeopardy two ways.

From babyhood on, the first step to a healthy and beautiful skin is scrupulous cleanliness. A girl in her teens should begin to use a simple night care product to ward off chaf and scuff. Of course, if she develops problems, she should ask her doctor for a corrective.

By the time a woman reaches 30, she should be a faithful user of an emolient—one formulated to counteract drying oils, moisture and elasticity in the lower layers of skin.

Modern treatment creams and lotions do have the power to penetrate the epidermis, skeptics not-

BY LOUISE DAVIS

TEA TALK

Dear Louise: I have never been quite sure what to say when I go to a tea. Would you please tell me at your earliest convenience as I am going to one next week.

Mrs. S. M. T., Cleveland, O.

Louise Davis Answers: If you keep in mind that other guests at a tea are in the same boat as you, you won't feel timid or awkward. No one knows in advance what to say, but she knows she's going to say something even if it is small talk such as, "What a beautiful day it is for a tea party."

Pleasant conversation with those around you, even strangers, is the best answer I can give. One can always find topics of conversation. When a house or room is filled with many people, it is difficult to converse on a subject for any length of time.

When you are faced with strangers which is often the case, just announce your name and the strangers will do likewise in response. From then on it can be the weather, the party itself, current news of common interest... anything. But talk, listen, respond.

COLOR FOR SECOND MARRIAGE

Dear Louise: I, a divorcee, am remarrying quietly in the chapel of my church. May I wear white?

R. B. Montgomery, Ala.

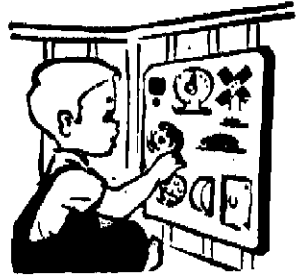

Louise Davis Answers: I suggest that you wear something in a color or shade appropriate for this time of year. However, white is permissible, but not as a wedding dress. You could wear a white suit or street length dress, just so you avoid the appearance of a first-time bride.

Concrete OK on Floor Of Asphalt

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: We have an asphalt garage floor. Can we put concrete over it?

A: Yes, if there is enough thickness of the concrete: at least two and a half inches of a good mix.

Aluminum Screening
Q: We have a 4-year old screen rear porch. They are permanent screens, year round. This last year we have noticed decided dark spotting on the aluminum screening. What can we use to remove these dark spots?

A: The protective coating on the aluminum screening has probably begun to weather off. Supermarkets, hardware and housewares stores sell excellent preparations for cleaning and polishing aluminum. Get the kind that leaves a protective coating on the surface of the metal. To avoid possible stretching of the screening when rubbing on the cleaner, if possible remove the screens; or have someone work with you so that both sides are treated at the same time, applying equal pressure with cloths held on both sides.

Broken Step
Q: A very heavy crate was accidentally dropped on one of our front concrete steps and knocked the edge off the step. At one corner. How can I repair this break?

A: Use a latex patching concrete, available masonry supplies, and some large hardware stores; follow label instructions for mixing. Be sure to brush away all loose particles before applying the matching material. Brace a form of sheet metal or wood as a support for the patch until it hardens.

Chipped Ceiling Paint
Q: My bedroom has been painted with latex paint over several layers of wallpaper. The ceiling is all chipping off. Is there anything I can do besides scrape the ceiling? I am just renting, and the landlady won't do anything about it.

A: Sorry to say, but the only satisfactory solution is to scrape off all flaking and chipping material, down to bare plaster. Otherwise, anything put over this will not adhere and will continue to come off.

Q: Could you repeat the information about finishing driftwood? At the times it appeared, I had no need for it; now I do. I was given a small piece of driftwood in an unusual shape which I would like to finish off and hang on the wall. Or do I go about bleaching, staining, etc.? Do I have to remove the bark?

A: The bark usually is removed from driftwood. Lift a corner of the bark with a small pick and peel it off. Vacuum off any clinging dust, etc. Black or dark spots on the surface of the wood should be lightly rubbed with "000" sandpaper; any grease

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Sell, Allentown, Pa., pose on their 70th wedding anniversary. The couple met in 1882 when he was 12 and she was eight. They attended the same Sunday school and the same church. They were married in 1892. Both are in good health. Mr. Sell said of their marriage, "It has been a give and take proposition. We've had a very nice life." (AP Wirephoto) grime, etc., should be removed by wiping the surface with fine steel wool and turpentine. The wood usually is left its natural color and some people prefer to leave the wood with no finish, just the surface cleaned. To stain the driftwood, use a wood stain in the desired shade, following label directions carefully; to bleach, use a wood bleach according to instructions on the container. A finish coat of clear lacquer or pure, fresh white shellac (thinned half-and-half with denatured alcohol) can be applied, to keep the natural color as light as possible. Applying a finish coat prevents the development of cracks from the wood drying out.

Discolored Linoleum
Q: I have a type of linoleum flooring on the bathroom floor: white with black flecks. The white background has become very yellow under rugs that had rubber nonslip backing. Is there anything I could do to remove this yellowing?

A: It may be impossible to remove the yellowing, the staining resulting from chemical reaction of rubber ingredients to the flooring. Try a quick stain remover for floor tile and linoleum, available at some tile dealers and large hardware stores. If not obtainable, try gentle rubbing with fine steel wool and scratchless scouring powder.

Duchess of Windsor Pattern

IN DIMINUTIV AND MISSES SIZES

Now surely as much a part of every American woman's wardrobe as the classic shirtdress, the overblouse increases in popularity every season, pausing only to change a small detail or to add or subtract a sleeve then going on to set new records of fashion acceptance. Typical of the relaxed, softly tailored look we love, the pullover top of this Duchess of Windsor design is smoothly glided over a high-rise ecamsle'd skirt. Full length inserts shape the easy fitting overblouse a mite closer at the sides, then continue through the sleeves as comfortable gussets. A pair of slash pockets take cover under trim as you can without touching the hem on shorts. Now, open both the back seat seam and front rise seam slightly — just enough so that the seam allowances of the inseams are free. If the pants have never been altered, you will usually find nough seam allowance to work with. It is wise to check this when purchasing slacks.

Let out seam as much as needed and restitch, tapering off to meet the original stitching lines of the inseams. Press open. Restitch the front and back rise on their original stitching lines. Press.

If the seam allowance in the crotch of the pants you wish to alter is small, don't bother with them. There is a great deal of strain at this point, and you should have at least 1/2-inch seam allowance left after alteration.

If crotch is too long, follow the same procedure as you did above, but this time take in the extra fullness.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Stopped In Minutes

Science Finds New Healing Substance That Promptly Stops Itching and Pain of Piles

New York, N. Y. (Special) — One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "itching piles." It is most embarrassing for the victim during the day and especially aggravating at night.

No matter what you've used without results — here's good news. For the first time, science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to promptly stop the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids — without surgery. Medical science has proved this substance produces a remarkably effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

The secret is this new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — discovery of a world-famous research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H®. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters.

Thirsty Burglars Hit Bar Cooler

Thirsty burglars entered a basement window at Hoppy's Bar, 1534 E. Wisconsin Ave., and took 11 cases of beer.

Police said the burglars took the screen off the open window and crawled through the 11 by 23-inch window space. One burglar apparently went into the cooler, police said, took the beer to the window and handed it to another person outside.

When the burglars finished, they replaced the screen, police said.

Slacks Need Proper Fit

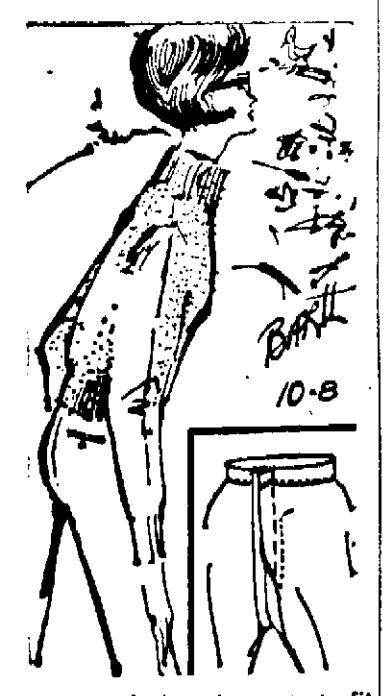

By Patricia Scott

In the last two years, more and more women have started wearing pants. They wear pants all year-round.

I have no objection to this, if the hips aren't too large. But I do object to ill-fitting pants!

Often slacks are either too tight or too loose in the Pat Scott seat, or the crotch is too long or too short. Rarely do they fit as though they were custom made. And they really should!

Few women are proportioned perfectly. This means they buy pants in the size closest to their measurements. This is fine, but they should alter the pants to fit properly. Here is how to make such alterations. The directions also apply to the altering of men's trousers.

If crotch is too short, rip the inseams (the seams running into the trouser leg) down about 12 inches for long pants and as far as you can without touching the hem on shorts. Now, open both the back seat seam and front rise seam slightly — just enough so that the seam allowances of the inseams are free. If the pants have never been altered, you will usually find nough seam allowance to work with. It is wise to check this when purchasing slacks.

Let out seam as much as needed and restitch, tapering off to meet the original stitching lines of the inseams. Press open. Restitch the front and back rise on their original stitching lines. Press.

If the seam allowance in the crotch of the pants you wish to alter is small, don't bother with them. There is a great deal of strain at this point, and you should have at least 1/2-inch seam allowance left after alteration.

If crotch is too long, follow the same procedure as you did above, but this time take in the extra fullness.

Schirra Says He Was Reluctant To End Orbiting

parison to the 64- and 48-orbit flights of the Soviet cosmonauts, Andrian Nikolayev and Pavel Popovich. It was a link between the three-orbit flights of John H. Glenn Jr. and Malcolm Scott Carpenter and one-day, 18-orbit mission planned for early next year, possibly in late February or early March.

Flies to Houston

The flight began at 7:15 a.m. Wednesday at Cape Canaveral, Fla., and ended at 4:28 p.m. 275 miles northeast of Midway Island in the Pacific. Schirra was picked up by the carrier Kearsarge, and taken to Hawaii where he was placed on a plane which arrived in Houston shortly after midnight Saturday.

Sunday this city—the new home of the Manned Spacecraft Center—turned out to give the astronaut a friendly welcome. Police estimated 300,000 citizens applauded Schirra as the motorcade wound slowly through the city to the Campus of Rice University.

With him was his blonde wife, Jo, and their carrot-topped children, Suzanne, 5, and young Marty.

Other Astronauts Present

Behind them came the other astronauts, with the exception of Alan B. Shepard Jr., not yet returned from his post during the orbital mission aboard the Pacific tracking ship Rose Knot.

Mrs. Schirra and Marty were among the crowd of 300 who listened to the Schirra story in the auditorium of the Rice University memorial center. With Mrs. Schirra was her mother, Mrs. James Holloway of Philadelphia. Also listening intently were two former aerial barnstormers, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Schirra of San Diego, the astronaut's parents.

"I thought it was darn good," said the elder Schirra when his son had finished his story. "I enjoyed it."

Schirra began with the liftoff. "The railroad train you're sitting on really does move out," he said.

"Textbook Flight"

"The over-all flight, I thought, was a textbook flight," said Schirra.

The countdown was "a real dream," he said. "I wanted everything perfect so I could get my hallelujah off."

He did that midway through his flight and he called that his most exciting moment.

"The most exciting thing to me was that I have proven, and that the capsule had proven, that we could go beyond three orbits," he said.

said, "That was the time when I said, 'Hallelujah!'"

The astronaut said he set out to prove that the Mercury capsule had enough fuel to control its attitude as it zips along its orbital path to last through a day-long mission.

Trouble With Temperature

"My intention was to use so little fuel that no one could argue that we had enough fuel for 18 orbits," he said. "I think I proved that point."

In the early moments of the flight, he said, he had trouble getting the temperature adjusted in his suit-cooling system. But it was not as serious as it sounded.

Deluge Hits Dallas Region

Cars Swept Off Streets, Some Homes Flooded

DALLAS (AP)—A deluge struck Dallas today. Flash floods swept cars off streets, caused some home evacuations and stranded residents.

Rain measured 4.67 inches between 3:00 a.m. and 7:30 a.m. (CST), practically paralyzing the northern portion of the city.

Continued moisture was forecast through tomorrow.

Police and fire departments sent all available rescue units to help stranded residents in North Dallas.

Other Dallas county towns reported serious flooding.

Officials said it was impossible to estimate the number of residents evacuated or still trapped around daylight.

"There are a terrific number of people who can't get out of their houses but they aren't in danger of their lives," one official said. "We woke up with water already in our house," said Mrs. Jerry B. Greene.

"Shoes were floating around inside the house. Our car was nearly covered up."

"The water's so deep in our street, that you couldn't see a car there," she said.

Gigantic traffic snarls resulted from flooded streets. On Dallas' central expressway traffic appeared backed up for a time bumper to bumper well past Richardson, a suburb 14 miles from downtown Dallas.

jockeyed with the President over a pension bill.

He hopes to force the House to reverse its decision on a $5-billion appropriation for the Department of Agriculture. The House last week refused to accept about $25 million worth of research projects tacked onto the bill by the Senate including a $1.6-million peanut marketing research station in Russell's home state—Georgia.

Pension Bill Passed

At stake, Russell said, is whether the House will be permitted to block the Senate out of initiating projects its members want. Smathers, on the other hand, wants the supplemental bill kept before the Senate as a possible vehicle for attaching a self-employed pension measure as a rider.

A bill permitting self-employed persons to set up tax exempt pensions within limits is now before Kennedy. There has been speculation he might veto it. It wasn't a guest, either.

He just jumped up out of the audience, ran on stage into camera view, and proclaimed, "I'm your second mystery guest."

CBS sources said he was on camera for only a few seconds before being ushered off stage by producer Gil Fates and announcer Johnny Olsen.

Police were called but said no complaint was filed against the man, whose name was not learned. He was released.

What's My Line? Has Unexpected 'Mystery Guest'

NEW YORK (AP)—The CBS television panel show "What's My Line?" had a different kind of "mystery guest" Sunday night.

He didn't tell his line. His appearance on the show was a mystery even to the producers. He veto the supplemental appropriation bill if the pension rider were attached to it.

A public works authorization measure was ready for passage by both houses this week. The future of a similar bill authorizing work on rivers, harbors and flood control was hazy.

The Cuban president asserted that Cuba would use all resources at its command to defend itself. He said his government would continue to strengthen its military forces "to defend ourselves, not to attack."

He declared that if the United States is able to give proof by word and deed not to carry out aggression against Cuba "then we would declare here and now that our weapons would be unnecessary and our armies useless."

He added that if the United States, on the other hand, feels it has power to attack Cuba directly "this is an unheard of attempt to flout international law."

The Cuban leader again raised the controversial issue of the U.S. Naval base at Guantanamo, charging that it is being used to infiltrate subversive agents into Cuba.

"I reiterate," he said, "that we will exercise the right to recover and reclaim this territory in due course, but not by physical force or by the use of weapons. We will apply the right when we deem it appropriate through international channels."

Dedication of New Boys School Set for Tuesday

MADISON (AP)—The Kettle Moraine Boys School, a $5.4 million correctional institution about 10 miles west of Plymouth, will be dedicated Tuesday.

Built to accommodate 300 inmates, the school is situated on a 480-acre site in the Kettle Moraine State Forest. A dozen dormitory cottages will house inmates. An administration building, a food service building, a chapel, and an instruction and maintenance building complex complete the school.

The school will employ a staff of 154 persons, including 20 specially trained teachers. It is the first completely new state institution for juvenile delinquents to be built in Wisconsin since the Civil War, and replaces the Wisconsin School for Boys at Wauskesha.

Gov. Gaylord Nelson will be the featured speaker at dedication ceremonies.

3 State Residents Die From Auto Crash In Upper Peninsula

ONTONAGON, Mich. (AP)—Three Wisconsin persons were killed Sunday in a two-car head-on crash on M 28 in Ontonagon County in western Upper Michigan. Two others are in serious condition in an Ontonagon Hospital.

State police listed the dead as Clifford Koss, 33; his daughter, Sharon, 15, and Evelyn Decarsky, 43, all of Manitowish, Wis.

Taken to the hospital were Koss' wife, Elaine, 37, and Mrs. Decarsky's husband, William.

The driver of the second car, Lawrence Hook, 58, of Ironwood, was also taken to the hospital in serious condition.

State police said the Koss car went out of control while rounding a curve on the slippery, black top road, and straightened out just in front of the Hook car.

Population at Winnebago May Decrease

Professional Staff Expanded to Improve Patient Treatment

MADISON — A permanent reduction of the population of Winnebago State Hospital probably is in sight, the state board of welfare was told Saturday in the annual report of the institution.

Its superintendent also disclosed expansion of professional staff has brought about an improvement in the patient treatment program.

Dr. Charles Belcher, institution chief, noted population during the last year had declined substantially, and that the institution aim now is to keep its patient load at 950 or under. During most previous years the patient total was well above that figure.

16 Physicians
Dr. Belcher said he now has a staff of 16 fulltime physicians, 13 of them formally trained in specialties. He said the hospital plans expansion of its out-patient services and launching of a program to provide residency training for psychiatrists at the hospital, probably in 1964.

The enlarged out-patient service may permit a reduction in the institutional treatment of the average patient, the report said. The need for readmission of patients also may be lessened.

The hospital has a staff of about 675 persons. Physical accommodations of patients will be improved with the completion of a new infirmary building, probably early next year, Dr. Belcher said.

Demolish Building
The old main building at the hospital is being partly demolished to make room for the new structure. Dr. Belcher said there

Electrical Engineers Will Hear Talk on Land Management

The Northeastern Wisconsin Section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Cliffs Bar southwest of Sherwood. W. O. Nedderson, superintendent of hydro plants for the Wisconsin Public Service Corp., will speak to the "Hydro Land Management". His illustrated talk will cover the cooperation which exists between a public utility and a paper company on effective management of forestry lands for power, pulp production, recreation and conservation, and on the new camping and hunting areas now available for use in northern Wisconsin. The Cliffs Bar is opposite the marina at the High Cliff State Park south of State 114. James Grist of Miller Electric Co. in Appleton is in charge of dinner arrangements.

African Drums to Announce Council

FORT PORTAL, Uganda (AP)—Drums, once the ominous sound of approaching tribal warfare, will roll across Africa Thursday to announce a more peaceful event.

Pope John XXIII has expressed the wish that church bells ring out across the world on that day, announcing the opening of the Ecumenical Council in Rome. Many of the poor mission churches in Africa do not have bells. It is common to hear drums announce the time for mass and other church observances. When the Ecumenical Council opens in Rome the drums will herald it in some areas.

The board of welfare will meet at the hospital Wednesday morning, before departing for the new Kettle Moraine School for Boys it can cause great difficulty in other breathing. Thus it can be a continuing problem or it can be of

To Your Good Health

Good Friends Aren't All Psychologists

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: When my daughter was a young child, she had occasional stomach upsets

Dr. Molner

She outgrew this, is now in high school and as far as I can see, a perfectly normal teen-ager. However a "good friend" who remembers her eye-rolling days warns me that I can expect mental trouble sooner or later.

Mrs. M. H.
Glad you put quotes around "good friend." Her prediction is ridiculous, without foundation, and without any element of humor. Lots of different spots.

Fibrosis Can Linger
Dear Dr. Molner: What is fibrosis of the lung? Is it a lingering illness? — Mrs. L.L.

Fibrosis of the lung is a technical way of saying that the tissue has been scarred. It can be from tuberculosis (in which case the scarring can be in a small area) or it can be from other causes, but not always known, leading to extensive scar areas. In that case, breathing thus it can be a conno detectable trouble at all, depending on the extent.

Dear Joe: I read your column every day and think it's the best of its kind — and I've read them all. I find I have to read them to keep up with the things patients throw at me every day!

Ordinarily your dermatological answers are excellent, but for the one attached, a more plausible answer would be so-called "lingua geographica," or "geographic tongue." Kindest personal regards and keep up the good work.

Typical Note
This note from a skin specialist I know is typical of the letters I get from kind colleagues. However, some of the correspondence is complicated and even includes copies of technical papers. The original question involved a mother's worry over "peculiar lesions" that appeared from time to time on the tongue of her three-year-old son. They would disappear and then return in a different spot.

I suggested that it might be like that when ill, especially when from a food allergy, but it could, indeed, be a geographic tongue, which, in some instances, has been defined as "eczema of the tongue."

This is usually a mild and transient thing, and ordinarily requires no attention beyond keeping the general health in good exercise (chest, waist, abdomen, etc.) that is harmful to a pregnant woman? — MRS. J.R.

Many factors are involved and I can't be dogmatic. It's best to be guided by your doctor, because what would be fine for one woman could be harmful to another. Walking is always good exercise and not too strenuous. (Copyright, 1962)

"A FREE $500 Furnace Oil Service Bond?"
Yes!

Just buy Skelly Furnace Oil before this offer expires. Then if your furnace fails due to clogged fuel line, filter or burner nozzle, we'll pay you $5.00 on your first service call this winter!

Let's face it. Oil heat is just about the most comfortable, most dependable kind of heat you can have in your home. But if a fuel stoppage should occur due to a clogged fuel line, filter or burner nozzle, then chances are, you'll be paying for a service call.

Why take the chance, when it's so easy to protect yourself?

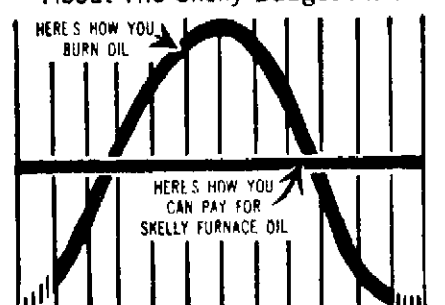

Have your fuel tank filled with Skelly Furnace Oil with Anti-Clog SK-12 for use in your Central Heating System. Your Skelly Furnace Oil Dealer will give you, absolutely free, a Skelly Furnace Service Bond worth $5.00 on your first service call (if you should have one) this winter.

Then if fuel stoppage occurs due to a clogged fuel line, filter or burner nozzle any time during the guarantee period (up to May 1, 1963) just call any reputable furnace company for service.

Have the furnace man sign your bond and send it, along with your service call receipt, to Skelly Furnace Oil Bond Program, P. O. Box 436, Kansas City, Missouri. Skelly will immediately mail you a check for $5.00.

Why buy any other furnace oil when you pay nothing extra for Skelly Furnace Oil with SK-12—and get bonded protection against fuel stoppage at no extra cost? Call your Skelly Furnace Oil Dealer today.

Ask Your Skelly Furnace Oil Dealer About The Skelly Budget Plan

Say goodbye to big winter bills for fuel oil this easy way. Just spread the cost evenly over a full twelve months. Ask about the Skelly "keep-fill" plan that guards against condensation in fuel tank.

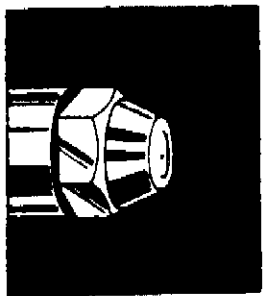

© 1962 Skelly Oil Company

SK-12 keeps fuel lines open and free of rust. Protects fuel tanks from rust that can cause leaks.

SK-12 protects furnace filters—keeps them clean and free-flowing to avoid sudden fuel stoppage.

SK-12 guards against sludge, gum, rust that can clog your furnace parts and burner nozzle opening.

SK-12 helps assure you of instant furnace starts and complete combustion for more heat per dollar.

Traffic Accidents Injure 13 With One Listed as Critical

Rescuers Forced to Cut Car Door To Remove Appleton Woman

Thirteen persons received injuries in traffic accidents Sunday and early today including one Appleton woman who is in critical condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Miss June Freimuth, 20, 609 N. Division St., was taken from emergency surgery about 11 a.m. at St. Elizabeth Hospital. She was taken to the hospital by Larry's Ambulance service about 3 a.m. after her car struck a tree on State 47 near County Trunk S.

Miss Freimuth was alone in the car, traveling south when she veered to the left, went off the road and struck the tree. Rescuers had to cut the automobile door from the car and rip out the front seat to free her.

Committees Will Discuss Pay Increases

Appleton Personnel Unit to Follow State Salary Plan

A jurisdictional dispute as to which committees should be the first to recommend merit pay in next year's budget to cover is brewing at city hall.

For the first time this year, the council's personnel committee is scheduling a series of meetings with department heads to discuss merit boosts for city employees, the first session set for Wednesday night.

Ald. R. P. Groh, committee chairman, said today he hoped there would be no misunderstanding over the format his committee intends to follow in keeping with a plan submitted the city last year by the State Bureau of Personnel.

Need Conference

"We want to meet with the department heads and get a true picture of the merit raises that will be granted and the amount of money that will be needed in next year's budget to cover them," Groh said.

In the event that a department head should bring in a proposal for blanket wage increases within the department, the committee intends to refer the matter to the state bureau, according to Groh.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell and some department heads have raised the question as to the procedure to be followed in arriving at merit raises.

Forward Requests

They feel that according to past common council policy, requests or recommendations by department heads for merit raises for their employees should go to the respective departmental committees of the council first. Under the setup, the committees would then forward their recommendations to the council which in turn would refer them to the personnel committee.

Department heads find themselves now caught in a political squeeze involving various committees that don't want one to have more jurisdiction than the other.

The personnel committee intends to make its recommendations to the various committees which can then refer them to the common council for final action.

Rule No. 8 of the common council's "Department and Committee Functions" reads in part: "The personnel committee shall have jurisdiction over all personnel matters in all departments of the city; such as administration administering the pay plan; union negotiations; policies involving car allowances, working conditions, fringe benefits and all other personnel matters that are of a general nature or as the council shall designate, but shall not include hiring and firing."

SHAWANO — Lloyd Andrews, feels constrained to find the defendant guilty of violating section 246.63 (1) (A). It is unfortunate that in the eyes of the public this will appear to be a conviction under the influence of an in-drunk driving. That is not toxicant or under the influence of the case. Our courts have many a dangerous or narcotic drug.

Andrews said he will appeal on the grounds that Judge Ronald D. Keberle erred in finding that the late this section in the past had to drug taken was a narcotic or dangerous drug within the definition of the statute defining drugs.

Judge Keberle fined Andrews $125 and costs Friday and ordered his driver's license revoked for a year. Judge Keberle said the conviction was "not for drunken driving," as the Post-Crescent reported Saturday. In his ruling, he was indicating that the defendant was a drunken driver, but merely that the court believes there has been no attempt by anyone either side of the plaintiff or the defendant to influence of either an intoxicant or as the cover up of the facts in this a dangerous drug, as defined by case, that it has been presented the statutes. The court so finds in [fairly and squarely, but the court] this action."

Infant Dies While Sleeping

Mary Beth Williams, 2-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Williams, 2004 Tillman St., died early Sunday morning, while she slept.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard Kemps listed cause of death as a respiratory infection.

The infant is survived by two

Residential Drive Starts This Week

600 Red Feather Workers to Contact 8,000 Homes in Appleton

Almost 600 residential workers are beginning to contact about 8,000 homes in Appleton to secure gifts for the United Red Feather campaign.

A goal of $13,915 is being sought by the general solicitation division in this year's drive to support 10 Red Feather services.

Division chairman is Mrs. Eugene Pierce. The residential section leaders are Mrs. Don Corrigan, Mrs. Joseph Moriarty, Mrs. Anthony Daleiden and Mrs. George Holler. Heading up the special gifts solicitation is Elmer Jennings.

The importance of this division was stressed by Paul Trutschel, campaign chairman. He said that in a campaign of this scope every possible nickel must be raised. The residential solicitation offers the opportunity to those not contacted through other divisions to give, Trutschel stated.

The amount raised by this division, he stressed, could spell the difference between the success and failure of the campaign.

Ward Chairmen

In addition to the four sections, the division has the following ward chairmen: 1. Mrs. Joan Stranathan; 2. Mrs. William O'Brien; 3. Mrs. Ralph Schneider; 4. Mrs. William Fries and Mrs. John Kaplingst; 5. Mrs. Kenneth Sager; 6. Mrs. Donald Van Duzin; 7. Mrs. John Kurtyka; 8. Mrs. Norman Cameron; 9. Mrs. Cyril West Washington Street and Melippert; 10. Mrs. E. A. Dettman; 11. Mrs. Alfred Oliver; 12. Mrs. H. A. McKenzie; 13. Mrs. Raymond Diener; 14. Mrs. George Riedl; 15. Mrs. Floyd Peterson.

A folder stating "I called on no one is at home. Cards listing the 10 agencies and asking, "If they came separately, how much would you give to each?" are being passed out.

Scoreboards charting campaign progress have been erected on West Washington Street and Melippert Drive.

The first of three report meetings will be held Thursday. The campaign progress by teams will be tabulated at that meeting.

Kennedy Battles Schedule at Game

Leaves to Catch Plane, but Returns to See Packer Goal

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The need to meet a time schedule battled with the football fan within Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy at City Stadium Sunday. The football fan won.

Faced with meeting a plane schedule to get to a Sunday night meeting in New York city and to avoid the crush of people after the game, Kennedy left his seat with the Detroit Lions leaving Green Bay, 7-6, and heading the ball with one minute 53 seconds remaining.

But when Kennedy and his party got under the stands, Herb Adley's interception of a Lions pass set off a stadium-roaring roar from the crowd. Time schedule or not, Kennedy made a sudden change in plans.

Kennedy dashed back up a ramp, climbed up on its iron railing, watched Paul Hornung make his winning field goal, jumped back down and hurried from the stadium.

"Like Excited Kid"

"He was just like an excited kid," reported Owen Monfils, Eighth District Democratic congressional candidate, who was leaving with Kennedy.

The flash of excitement contrasted with Kennedy's appearance while he watched the game, intensely but quietly. Like his brother, the president, Kennedy is noted for traveling without a top coat. He watched the game in a borrowed rain coat and no hat.

"Our team is behind," he said, concisely to reporters at half time.

Kennedy sat with Gov. Gaylord Nelson, Atty. Gen. John Reynolds, Patrick Lucey, State Democratic Chairman, Monfils and James Dillon, U. S. Marshal for eastern Wisconsin, Edward Guthman, Department of Justice Press Officer, also made the trip to Green Bay.

Came For Dinner

Kennedy was in Wisconsin to be the main speaker Saturday night at a $50 a plate fund raising dinner in Milwaukee for the Reynolds gubernatorial campaign. Sunday morning he visited the south side Milwaukee district of Rep. Clement Zablocki.

"I was very impressed with the enthusiasm shown Saturday night. But we are still in a very tough race here in Wisconsin," Kennedy summarized his politicking to a reporter at half time.

Kennedy could not escape politics at the game.

At half time, a woman carrying Kennedy's bag was seen leaving with Kennedy.

Planning Expansion Backed in Appleton

Police Foil Runaway Plot By Teen-Agers

Three Appleton teen-agers who planned to run away to California in a stolen car were arrested Friday by Appleton police and sheriff's officials.

Sheriff Lt. Jack Zuelzke and Lt. Vilas Burmeister and Patrolman Wayne Huchner of Appleton Police Department arrested the youths when they came to pick up the stolen car they had hidden on a parking lot in the 500 block of W. Wisconsin Avenue Wednesday.

One of the youths released by police today after he was cleared of the theft charge. The others are in the County Jail.

The boys said they planned to pick up two teen-age girls and drive to California. The car was stolen from the 41 Bowl Wednesday night.

Sell Equipment

In the car was $300 worth of golf equipment which the youths said they planned to sell to finance the trip.

The boys were first taken to the Appleton jail and transferred to the county jail. The two are slated to appear in juvenile court this week.

The car, owned by Robert L. Grist, 307 Church St., Neenah, was driven by the youths on several occasions after the theft.

Zuelzke spotted the car Friday and notified Appleton police. Burmeister and Huchner, along with Zuelzke, watched for the youths from 1 p.m. until they appeared at 4 p.m. to claim the car.

Staff Members Of Institute at TAPPI Meeting

Two staff members of the Institute of Paper Chemistry, have had use inventory on a parcel-by-parcel basis for the entire city. He wants this work to be under the direction of the city planner, Yom Kippur, which marked the start of the Year of the Moslems.

Dr. T. A. Howells, head of the Institute's Special Processes Section, is general chairman of the planning office, and would like to see it established as a separate evening and throughout most of the department to handle all the planning of the city and its problems.

Jack Weiner, technical editor at the Institute, will be a member of the panel which will discuss "Regional Developments in Europe." Weiner's subject on the panel will be "Abstract Services and Availability of Foreign Original Journals and Translations in the United States."

William Crabbe, 59, of Green Bay was killed early Sunday night when his car was cut in half in a collision with another auto on U. S. 41 south of Green Bay. Crabbe was killed instantly in the crash, described by one investigation officer as the worst he had ever seen. The driver of the other car was hospitalized. (AP Wirephoto)

Additional Personnel Needed In 1963, City Planner Claims; Council Asked to Provide Funds

Expansion of the City of Appleton's planning facilities has been recommended for 1963.

Creation of a separate planning department, or a division within the department of public works, has been recommended to the plan commission and the common council by City Planner Walter C. Rasmussen.

Rasmussen did not say how much of a budget appropriation his proposed planning expansion program would require but stressed it would be needed to tie in with the activities of the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission.

Appleton has no municipal planning department at this time. Rasmussen as city planner is a one-man staff, and he also serves in the capacity as the city's traffic engineer.

Makes Report

Rasmussen forwarded a 17-page report on planning to all members of the commission and the common council setting forth his views on local and regional planning. It is the second such report in less than a month. In the first he recommended Appleton remain a member of the regional commission in 1963 although he did level stinging criticism of some past commission operations.

The plan commission and council will decide soon whether to appropriate $9,511 as Appleton's share of the 1963 regional plan commission budget.

Rasmussen wants Appleton to expand its own planning facilities for many reasons. He says it is imperative that adequate funds be appropriated to produce accurate existing and proposed land use maps to complement and supplement the proposed zoning ordinance as prepared for the regional plan commission.

Funds should also be made available, according to Rasmussen, to prepare a detailed existing city map, to prepare a detailed parcel-by-parcel basis for the entire city. He wants this work to be under the direction of the city planner, Yom Kippur, which marked the start of the Year of the Moslems.

Dr. T. A. Howells, head of the Institute's Special Processes Section, is general chairman of the planning office, and would like to see it established as a separate evening and throughout most of the department to handle all the planning of the city and its problems.

Jack Weiner, technical editor at the Institute, will be a member of the panel which will discuss "Regional Developments in Europe." Weiner's subject on the panel will be "Abstract Services and Availability of Foreign Original Journals and Translations in the United States."

A folder stating "I called on no one is at home. Cards listing the 10 agencies and asking, "If they came separately, how much would you give to each?" are being passed out.

Scoreboards charting campaign progress have been erected on West Washington Street and Melippert Drive.

The first of three report meetings will be held Thursday. The campaign progress by teams will be tabulated at that meeting.

City's Planning Needs Expansion

immediately instead of relying on a private consultant firm which he has repeatedly criticized.

The city planner feels Appleton should play a firmer role in the activities of the regional commission while stepping up its local planning program. Rasmussen says in his report that as of the end of 1962, Appleton will have contributed $77,231 to the regional plan commission as compared with a total contribution through 1961 of $123 by the Town of Buchanan which became the eleventh member of the commission in 1961.

"Although the total contributions of the Town of Buchanan and City of Appleton vary widely, each of these communities has equal representation on the plan commission and executive committee," Rasmussen points out, with each municipality having one vote.

Noble Experiment

"This entire organizational set-up is a tremendously noble experiment in democracy and a tribute to the generosity of the City of Appleton which is required to pay 41 per cent of all costs while controlling only 9 per cent of the voting power of the commission," Rasmussen commented.

Rasmussen says the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission has the same problems of such other groups. "The undersigned will hazard a prediction that the newly-created Wolf River Regional Plan Commission will also suffer these same deficiencies as will the recently formed Green Bay Regional Plan Commission," Rasmussen said.

In his conclusions, Rasmussen says continuance of Appleton's participation in the regional commission should be conditioned on the overhauling of the by-laws so that Appleton can exert influence in proportion with the costs assigned to the city.

Wisely Spent

"The funds that Appleton contributes to the organization originate with the citizens of Appleton and the city must have the necessary representation to see that these dollars are spent in the best interests of these citizens," Rasmussen said.

He advocates that Appleton insist the State Bureau of Personnel draft the job positions and standards for the staff positions within the proposed regional planning office and that applicants be tested by the bureau.

Rasmussen again recommended that Appleton insist the budget for the regional planning office be appropriated for the sole purpose of furthering regional planning, and any special local problems requiring attention should be billed to the individual community on a specifically prescribed basis.

"This is the only way in which the regional planning office can be operated for regional planning purposes without becoming 'snowed under' with local problems," Rasmussen said.

Nelson Visits Team

Nelson visited the Packers' dressing room after the game. While he had been invited, Kennedy passed this up to meet his schedule.

Kennedy and his party arrived at Austin Straubel Field by private plane at about 1 p.m., about 30 minutes behind schedule, and the game was heading into the second period when he reached the stadium.

A knot of about 25 local Democrats, city officials, and spectators stood in the rain at the airport to welcome Kennedy. These included Green Bay Mayor Roman Denissen and Frank Schkore, Chamber of Commerce president.

Kennedy had a hot dog and a bottle of beer as his lunch during the game.

ing a sign for Rep. John Byrnes, Green Bay Republican, walked past the Kennedy party and drew a cheer. Latin American music at half time, brought a "What About Cuba" shout from a fan.

Discuss Cuba

Kennedy, Reynolds and Nelson started a discussion of the domestic political consequences over Cuba. This was about the only serious talk during the game.

A reporter asked Kennedy if he was in town scouting for the unbeaten and once-tied Washington Redskins.

"No, I'm here because I like the Green Bay Packers," he said. Kennedy said the Redskins success was long overdue for their followers. He had not seen their Sept. 30 home game, he said.

"I had other problems on my mind last Sunday," he said with a trace of humor in recalling the University of Mississippi rioting.

Combined Locks Youth Fined, Jailed; Has License Suspended

An 18-year-old Combined Locks youth was ordered to pay fines totaling $145, had his driver's license revoked for 18 months and was ordered to serve 15 days in the Outagamie County jail on charges stemming from a motorcycle ride Sunday night.

Roger S. Schimmers, 122 Margaret St., pleaded guilty of driving 70 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone, disregarding a policeman's order to stop, going through an arterial and driving after his operator's license had been revoked.

Schimmers was arrested by Kimberly police about 12:20 a.m. today on E. Second and S. Witlow streets.

Chicago Woman Condemns Fluoridation at Brillion

BRILLION — Fluoridation of water was condemned here Sunday night by Mrs. Alice Schuringa, Chicago. About 30 residents heard the speaker.

The meeting was sponsored by the Citizens Committee to Protect Our Water Supply, a group opposing fluoridation of water in Brillion. Brillion residents will vote on the question in a referendum Nov. 6.

Mrs. Schuringa has been opposing the fluoridation of the Chicago water supply. She charged that fluoridation

1. Couldn't be controlled as far as the amount of fluorides put into the water supply.
2. Variations in individual consumption resulted in some people getting more than others.
3. Was harmful to the health of people.
4. It was not the function of government to fluoridate the water supply.
5. It is medical treatment.

Makes Other Charges

She also charged that fluoridation was being promoted by the aluminum industry which wanted to find a market for industrial wastes. She stated that fluoridation was harmful to plumbing and that there were many false teeth in areas which had fluoridation.

Officers of the group opposing fluoridation are Henry Becker, chairman, Mrs. Arthur Kielgas, vice chairman, and Edward Schmitz, secretary-treasurer.

The campaign to fluoridate the water is being backed by the Brillion Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Two Neenah Men Hospitalized After Accident

CLINTONVILLE — Two Neenah men are in Clintonville Community hospital with injuries received in an accident at 5:45 p.m. Saturday, two miles west of Big Falls on County Trunk C.

Kenneth Bemowski, 27, 610 1/2 Sherry St., Neenah, the driver, suffered a broken collar bone and deep lacerations of the forehead and back of his right ear.

Eugene Schmasse, 26, 410 E. Franklin Ave., Neenah, a passenger, received cuts and abrasions on his right arm and a bruised left leg.

Patrolman Clarence Draeger of the Waupaca County traffic patrol reported Bemowski was driving west, failed to make a curve, and the car skidded approximately 300 feet before hitting a deep ditch. The 1957 model car is estimated to be a total loss.

Assisting in the investigation were Marion Police Chief Jack Below and Sgt. Lyle McCully of the Waupaca County traffic patrol.

Storms Diminish In Northeast

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Storms diminished in most of the Northeast today but more showers dampened broad areas from the Ohio Valley into the northern plains. Fair weather was indicated for most other sections of the nation.

Hurricane Daisy which hammered Nova Scotia's southwest coast was blamed for at least 24 deaths in New England over the weekend. Property damage was estimated in the millions of dollars.

Thunderstorms continued late Sunday night in sections of the Ohio Valley. Hail pelted northern parts of Cincinnati. A 40-mile belt of thunderstorms swept across northern Indiana. Wind gusts of 75 m.p.h. were reported in Indianapolis and 72 m.p.h. in Bensenville, where highways were blocked by uprooted trees and power lines.

Tipsy Driver Pleads Guilty

Fined $200 or 65 Days in Jail After Accident

Martin Liebergen, 71, route 1, Wrightstown, pleaded guilty of drunken driving when he appeared in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2, today.

Liebergen was arrested by Outagamie County police at 11:08 p.m. Sunday after being involved in an accident near U.S. 41 in the Town of Kaukauna.

He was taken to Outagamie County Jail and examined by a doctor, but was unable to blow up the balloon to take the drunkometer test. He was fined $200 with an alternative of 65 days in jail.

Innocent Plea In 2 Slayings

Miller Arraigned At Marinette; Court To Name Attorney

MARINETTE — Claude Miller, 39, was arraigned this morning on first degree murder charges before County Judge Harry White. Miller had no attorney and claimed he has no funds to retain an attorney.

The court ordered innocent pleas entered temporarily on both counts pending retention of counsel. The court will furnish a lawyer. Preliminary examination is set for 10 a.m. Monday, Oct. 15. Miller was returned to the jail.

Miller was charged in connection with the shotgun slaying of his wife, Frances, 31, and Elmer Kohler, 48, in the Miller home Saturday night.

Eating Ice Cream

Mrs. Miller and Kohler were killed while they ate ice cream in the kitchen of the Miller home with Kohler's son, John, 12, and the boy's cousin, Shelby Kiell, 13. The boys witnessed the shooting and were blood spattered before they ran screaming from the home, according to Murphy.

The district attorney said the boys told him that Miller entered the home shouted "Well, you asked for it," and started shooting with a 12 gauge shotgun. Mrs. Miller and Kohler were killed immediately.

Was Taken

Miller was taken into custody a few hours later after he applied for admittance to a hospital and was recognized.

"I must have done it, but I don't know why," Miller was quoted as saying.

Miller had been living away from home since his wife filed divorce proceedings recently. The couple has three children.

Kohler, a painter, was divorced twice, his second wife is living in Milwaukee. His son had been living with him since this summer.

Authorities said Miller had several brushes with the law, dating back to 1954, including convictions for larceny and assault.

Four Appleton women were delegates to the 31st national convention of the Valparaiso, Ind., University Guild held on campus last week. They were Mrs. Kenneth Gertsch, president of the Appleton chapter, Mrs. Harold Vonder Here, Mrs. Ira Lecky and Mrs. Clarence Ehleke.

Aftermath of Murder

Marinette Suffering From Case of Nerves

BY PATRICIA ZAHORIK Post-Crescent News Service

MARINETTE — A bad case of the jitters still lingers in the city of Marinette, the aftermath of an anxious Saturday night and Sunday morning of a search for an alleged murderer.

In a city where locks are frequently a matter of indifference, people are still cautiously checking callers from behind locked doors, and apologetically declaring they are "still nervous." Object of the search was Claude Miller, 39, accused slayer of his wife Frances, 31, and her companion, Elmer Kohler, 48.

Mrs. Francis La Londe, who lives across the street from the Miller home, learned of the murder Saturday night when the dead man's 12-year-old son ran into her house saying, "Mr. Miller just shot my father." Mrs. La Londe quickly turned out the light, pulled the boy down on the floor in a corner of the room and called police.

'Expect Anything'

Mrs. La Londe said that everyone in the neighborhood was dreading what might happen. "If a man would beat his wife up like that while he was living with her, you could expect almost anything," she said.

The E. E. Brickers, who live next door to the Miller home, were the ones to whom Mrs. Miller had run for help when she got away from her husband. At that time she had expressed her fear that he would also hurt the couple's three children.

Called to the murder scene Saturday night by Mrs. Miller's 13-year-old nephew, Bricker found the two dead in the kitchen, and Mrs. Miller's sons, Paul, 6, and Tommy, 4, crying in a downstairs bedroom. Mrs. Bricker took the Miller children home with her and later their sister Ellen, 13, also spent the night with the Brickers. Ellen had been away from home at the time of the shooting.

Was Beaten

Another neighbor for whom Mrs. Miller occasionally did work recalled the day some weeks ago when the woman came to her house bruised and scratched about the arms and neck. Asked if she had fallen, she told of her husband throwing her on a bed and beating her, the bruised arms having been folded over her face for protection. She reportedly told the neighbor, "This is not my first pounding. He has done it many times before, even when I was pregnant."

According to the neighbor, Mrs. Miller told her she had taken out an insurance policy on herself after the separation, "so there will be something for my children if he gets me."

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND
By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

There are some children who need to know how to steer and benefit from changing schools. But a recent study finds that "four times as many students who had attended two or more elementary schools dropped out of high school than did children who stayed in the same elementary school." Frequent change of school is apt to be upsetting to a pupil's academic progress. It may even more seriously disrupt his social relationships. Helping the transferred student adapt to his new surroundings can make a big difference in the over-all effect of moving him from one school to another.

An intelligent man will control his emotions!

True— False—
True, and by control we do not mean to eliminate, but steer. Our emotions are like the motors in the cars. We do not want to cut them out, but rather to direct them. Our power, along with constructive direction, is the key to our emotional control.

African Folk Singer Coming to Appleton

Oct. 25 Concert of Miriam Makeba Sponsored by Lawrence Student Group

Lawrence College's student special projects committee, again under the guidance of co-chairmen Ken King and Maries Nore, is sponsoring two star community concerts this school year at Memorial Chapel.

The first concert, scheduled for 8 15 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 25, will bring African folk singer Miriam Makeba to Appleton. Plans also are underway to sponsor The Four Preps next spring.

This non-profit student organization on the Lawrence campus has brought such stars as Ella Fitzgerald, Joan Baez and the Modern Jazz Quartet to the Fox Cities. The project is financed entirely through ticket sales.

As in former years, a reception will be held for Miss Makeba after the concert in the Memorial Union on campus. Tickets for the concert now are on sale at Belling's Pharmacy, Appleton.

A favorite performer in her native Union of South Africa, Miriam Makeba is unique in that she blends the roles of singer, actress and visual historian of a great culture. She has stirred music enthusiasts of the United States to

Man's World Warns of Chivalry

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 (Channel 4-5) — It's a Man's world tries for a second time to put on its best outing so far: last week this show was pre-empted by the Mississippi crisis. This show, strictly for laughs, has Wes (Glenn Corbett) discovering the danger of rescuing a damsel in distress. Nora (Ann Schuyler) and Wes wind up chasing a load of escaping rubber tires down a hillside and into a pigeon. When one tire winds up in a haystack, the couple acquire bits of hay on their persons which make Wes' girl friend (Jan Norris) jealous.

7:30-8 (Channel 2) — Lucille Ball has another athletic 30 minutes on The Lucy Show this week. This week it's fencing and for a while it's touch-and-go whether she'll get out of the show alive. The plot is illogical but fun. Lucy and Vivian Vance entertain a gentleman who may or may not be married.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 4-5) — Saints and Sinners has another story about newspaper ethics, with some courtroom ethical problems tossed in for good measure. Lew Arnes plays a judge with problems and Ray Walston is a lawyer with a too-strong desire to win, no matter who he has to hurt. Rod Lauren, who once got a big build up as a teen-ager singer for RCA, has quit singing to act and gets his biggest part in this — he plays a singer.

8-9 (Channel 11) — Stoney Burke preaches against stubbornness tonight. And it makes a good although obvious, point. Jack Lord, as rodeo king Burke, is caught between two opposing forces. Both the county health and police commissioners are trying to do good, by sponsoring charity sporting events. By coincidence the events (a rodeo and a boxing card) are set for the same night. A virtual war breaks out over which event will go on.

9:30 (Channel 2) — Tonight's episode on The New Loretta Young Show is a rather appealing love story, with Loretta Young being wooed by James Philbrook, as a magazine editor. The children, something of a surprise to Philbrook, only enter in the last few scenes, which are funny.

9:30 (Channel 4-5) — David Brinkley's Journal has two intriguing segments tonight. First is an interview with Earl Ballew, an American millionaire now living in Rio de Janeiro after leaving the U. S. when his financial world collapsed. In contrast to this splendor, the second part looks at the tawdry marriage mills in Las Vegas and Carson City, Nev.

9:30 (Channel 11) — Ben Casey's story tonight is called "The Night That Nothing Happened" which is something of a misnomer. Actually, a lot happens in the black-out. For story purposes, they exaggerate this, for most hospitals do have auxiliary power sources. But here the elevator stops, the lights go out, the iron lungs cut off and Vincent Edwards must mobilize the staff for action.

10:20-12 (Channel 4-5) — Tonight's guests are Mitch Miller, Sebastian Cabot and Cmdr. Whitehead. (Color)

Former Manawa Police Chief Tells of Mississippi Riots

A former police chief in Manawa, who recently took part in quelling the Mississippi riots, has admitted that any marshal involved in the ruckus who wasn't scared was "either a fool or just didn't have any sense."

Rodney Taubel, now United States deputy marshal from Wisconsin's eastern district, made the statement upon return from a 17-day stay in Mississippi where he led one of the many squads of U. S. deputy marshals against rioters at the University of Mississippi campus in Oxford.

Taubel indicated he wouldn't want to relive his experiences at the riot-torn college.

"I can't speak for all the marshals," Taubel said. "But I was scared. The worst part of it was that I was a squad leader and had to lead three or four others against a crowd. Once we ran into it, we weren't sure whether we would come back."

Taubel was sworn in as deputy marshal June 13. He attended a special riot training school in Colorado Springs, Colo., during the past summer.

French Actress Janien Grandel, Hollywood, hopes the city's animal regulation board renews her permit to keep 45 cats in her home. Two rooms in her house are specially furnished with two double and three single beds and a chest for her Persian cats. Miss Grandel says the cats are quiet and well-behaved, but neighbors disagree. They say the commotion is awful. (AP Wirephoto)

School Should Come Before Extracurricular Activities

BY LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.

Going to school is a fulltime job. The student who places learning other tries to study hard, but she given as rewards, provided they are not offered ahead of time as bribes.

Our son was graduated a year ago from high school with a C average. Until his senior year, he had a B average.

He entered junior college and his grades and his confidence hit rock bottom. He was suspended for six months.

He had many outside interests such as singing in a church choir, assistant Scout master, working in a restaurant after school plus a job for an industrial film company and gun club, etc. His restaurant job is being held open for him.

What do you advise? Mrs. W. G. Millbrae, Calif. She is old enough to understand that only through taking charge of her own life and working out her own problems will she achieve position of importance. Appropriate academic work has become a sideline to him.

Actually college is a full time job. Sixteen units of work is a 48 hour week for an average student. In your son's position it would take longer since he has to bring his work up from a low to a high standard.

I suggest he wait until it is possible for him to make school a full time job. Only after he has carried college work at a satisfactory high level should he be allowed any sort of part-time work.

Dear Dr. Nason: In a recent article you suggested that a child be encouraged to realize his potential through incentives—not punishment.

Will you please suggest some incentives? M.H., Falls Church, Va. A parent's approval is one of the strongest incentives for children. Don't fail to let the child know when you do approve of his achievements.

Several New Shows Have 2 Plots Going

'Fair Exchange' Pleasant Comedy On Daughter Swap

NEW YORK (AP) — A venerable show business device, used particularly when business isn't good, is that of offering two tickets for a single price. They are called "two-fers" — two for the cost of one.

One of this season's minor trends which seems to have escaped notice is the television two-fer. A number of the new shows are now serving up two stories—sometimes more—in a single episode.

One of these is CBS' "Fair Exchange," a pleasant comedy hour pegged on the temporary swap of teen-aged daughters by an English and an American family. Each Friday the program shuttles smoothly between the merry goings-on in London and New York. It is really two well-integrated shows.

Then there is NBC's "Sam Benedict," which always has two—and sometimes more—stories going at one time. Last Saturday there was the main story, one about a mad murderer in which Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes figured as the unlikely heavy. Then there was a minor and milder tale about a Chinese restaurant keeper innocently selling liquor to minors. Both were neatly wrapped up at the end.

The first episode of CBS' "The Nurses" suggested that this series, too, might juggle a number of medical and emotional plots and counterplots simultaneously. But last week's show was a straightforward story about a working woman's problem in adjusting to housewifery. The story even abandoned nursing and hospital scenes and its stars had little to do.

The new newcomer of the week-end, ABC's "The Gallant Men," on Friday evening was an unglamorous, forthright war story with emphasis on the reactions of men in battle.

The central figure and story-teller of the series is a World War Correspondent, played by Robert McQueeney. The story focused on a few men in a company forced to storm an enemy position somewhere between Salerno and Rome.

The sounds and sights of war—gun and mortar fire, mud, death—were simulated with uncomfortable realism. The plot, however, was phoned up a bit with a private who was really an AWOL major trying to make up for a mistake and a young captain who was beyond his depth.

If you like action "The Gallant Men" has it — but it's the rugged kind.

The federal state and county governments each contribute about one-third of the total cost. Extension programs are carried out in all 72 counties and there are agricultural, home 4-H, and farm and home development agents serving the state.

Historically, cooperative extension services were focused on livestock and crop improvement programs, the alliance said. But the range of programs has expanded as Wisconsin's population has become more urban.

The Alliance noted that since 1940 Wisconsin farm population has decreased by more than 35 per cent and that agents have begun to devote more time to marketing, management, community and resource development activities.

The Taxpayers Alliance is an organization that studies the problems and services of government.

Green Bay Packer Boyd Dowler (86) stares in dismay as he turns to see Yale Lary (28), of the Detroit Lions, intercept a pass in the closing seconds of the first half of Sunday's game in City Stadium. The pass, thrown by Tom Moore, was intended for Dowler and the interception stopped a Packer scoring threat. Green Bay won the game, 9-7. (AP Wirephoto)

ing to win," confided, "I said the team that got the break was going to win it. And that intercept. The forthright Wilson, never loth to speak his mind, took full responsibility for the pass that produced Adderley's key interception. "I called that — I don't want Plum to be blamed for it."

Analyzing the situation as he saw it at the time of decision, Wilson said, "We were just going for the first down. And, remember, we had made two in a row on the same play. Supposing we had kicked the ball? They complete a long pass and kick a 33-yard field goal."

One of Top QBs

Defeat, he added, had not diminished his esteem for Plum, acquired in an off-season deal. Milt and Paul Brown became mutually disenchanted. "I still think Plum's one of the top quarterbacks in the league," Wilson declared.

Had the Packers done anything unexpected, "No, nothing at all," George replied softly.

Did he think his Lions might have fared better on a dry field, "That's hard to say," Wilson said. "This type of field helps the defense, of course. The offense can't do much—you have to pussyfoot around so you don't fall. We and the Packers played exactly the same kind of game — all short passes and runs, nothing very fancy."

Did he feel the defeat had diminished the Lions' title chances? "Definitely not," was the firm and unhesitating reply from the ex-Chicago Bear end, who calls his '62 club "the best team I've had" since taking over as head coach in 1957.

What about the Packers? Did he think they could go through unbeaten? "No. Somebody will beat 'em, probably before we play 'em in Detroit Thanksgiving Day. They're not going to go through undefeated."

Deep gloom is customary in the losers' dressing room but the Lions' quarters were almost funereal. And none was more disconsolate than Michigan alumnus Terry Barr, who slipped to the turf in maneuvering for the pass Adderley intercepted.

The last Lion to shower and dress, he dispassionately formed a knot for his tie in a corner of the almost deserted room and rapped, "I made my second move and fell down — but they don't count that."

Aldo Forte, the Lions' veteran defense coach, was highly impressed with Jim Taylor's performance. "That Taylor's a great back," he asserted, shaking his head in admiration. "You don't have to make a hole for him — he makes his own. All they have to do is give him the ball and block straight ahead — he'll bounce off somebody or run over somebody."

Carroll Harriers Defeat OSC

WAUKESHA — Dan Muinde, of Oshkosh State College, took first place in a dual cross country meet between OSC and Carroll College with a time of 15:30.8 here Saturday afternoon.

Other placing OSC carriers were Phil Nordgren, Appleton, second; Dan Moede, sixth; Tom Sager, eleventh and Jeff Potter, twelfth.

Carroll won, 27-30.

Packers Edge Lions In Last 33 Seconds

Taylor each gained two yards and moved the ball in the "center" of the goal posts on the 14.

With a timeout, the field goal team came forth and sweated out, along with the Lions, those last seconds before the kick. Dan Currie ran out with a towel and wiped off the square toe of Hornung's kicking shoe—just in case any mud had caked from the soggy-with-rain field.

Lions Held Off

Jim Ringo's passback was perfect. Bart Starr set the ball down accurately, the snarling Lions were held off and Hornung got off a "long" boot from the 21. It was perfect but the unbelieving crowd didn't let loose until the official leaped his arms into the air. Everything flew then.

The Lions still had a chance, but the Packer defense wouldn't let this one slip away. Plum completed the fourth of his final four drives and the gun ended the game with the Lions on their own 45.

Hornung wound up with all the points and there's little doubt that this guy really has a golden toe. He kicked a 15-yard field goal to put the Bays ahead 3-0 in the first quarter and added another 15-yarder to cut Detroit's lead to 7-6 in the third period.

Adderley, who made a similar interception to break last year's Thanksgiving Day Packer-Lion game in favor of the Bays, robbed the Lions of a 5-3 tie in the second period when he broke through to block a 25-yard field try by Wayne Walker.

Offensive Edge

This was a tremendous game between two fine defenses. The Packers had the offensive edge, 19 first downs to 12, and 319 total yards to 199 but the Lions had the point lead (7-6) until you know when.

The Packers moved the ball well but shackled themselves with two pass interceptions—on option throws by Tom Moore and Hornung; and a fumble by Starr on the Packer 34 in the second period, and at least three penalties. The Lions turned Starr's fumble into the game's lone TD, a 6-yard dash by Lewis.

It would have been a shame if the Bays had lost, 7-6, because the defense had the Lions' high-scoring (nearly 40 a game) well in control—but for the surge after the fumble recovery. Yet, this was a most bitter pill for the Lions who kept the Packers' vaunted offense from scoring a touchdown for the first time since the 21-3 Giant game of 1959.

The prime mover was Jimmy Taylor who was less than 24 hours from a 100-degree temperature. The blasting fullback rolled for 35 yards in 20 carries and caught three passes for 25 yards. Starr completed 18 out of 26 pass attempts for 198 yards and Max McGee caught five of them for 69.

Starr Hits McGee

The Bays rolled to a 3-0 lead the first time they had the ball and they hit the Lions where they are strongest—rush defense right away. Hornung and Taylor hit four times for 25 yards on the first four plays. Starr hit McGee for 14 and Taylor ran for another 14 to the Lion 14. It looked easy—especially after LeBeau slugged McGee and the penalty put the ball on the Lion 8.

But the Lions asserted themselves as Taylor gained zero in two tries and Starr's rollout pass to Kramer was incomplete. Hornung then booted a field goal from the 15 at 5:06.

Lary punted twice and Dowler once as the Packers took the advantage on a 22-yard punt return by Willie Wood after Elijah Pitts put down a key block. With the ball on the Packer 41, Taylor fumbled and Wayne Walker recovered on the Packer 42.

The Lions picked up two first downs, chiefly on Plum's 13-yard run, a pass and four runs but the Packers forced a field goal thanks to key tackles by Bill Quinlan and Hank Jordan and a sneer of Plum by Bill Forester.

Walker was booting from the 25 when Adderley zipped in to block it, with Forester recovering.

This stroke of good fortune was lost a moment later when after a first down Alex Karras recovered a fumble by Starr who was running when his passing targets was closed off.

Game's Only TD

The Lions ate up the 34 yards for the game's only TD in six plays. The big plays were an 11-yard run by Lewis, a 15-yard run by Plum and the 6-yard TD scamper by Lewis. Plum was trapped by Willie Davis but the slippery turf was an advantage for the flier, and Plum broke away to the six.

The Packers smacked right back and thanks to Starr's 24-yard pass to Taylor who ran over three people along the way, reached the Lion 37. Starr then threw to McGee for 12 and the Packers appeared on their way. Moore, subbing for Hornung, lofted a high pass to Dowler who was behind Lary in the end zone and it seemed like a sure TD but Lary leaped high and intercepted it on the one.

The game moved into the dog-fight stage again with the Lions punting twice shortly before the half ended and after the Packers held them at the start of the second half.

Green Bay took over on the 22 and started a drive that sure looked good. Until Starr went to the air and hit Hornung for 7, Dowler for 10, Dowler for 9 and McGee for 14, to the Lion 27. Hornung ran for 4 to the 23 up the middle. The option pass-run play was next but Hornung's short flip was intercepted by Carl Brettschneider and another drive went down the drain.

With Ray Nitschke getting the key tackle the defense gave the ball right back to Starr's crew on the 20. Again Starr went to the air, targeting Moore for 13, McGee for 30, and McGee again for 18, setting the ball up nicely on Detroit's 12.

Second Field Goal

Hornung then made five to the 7. Starr TD this time? Earl Gros lost one and Starr's pass to McGee in the end zone was incomplete. On the last play of the third period, Hornung kicked his second FG for a 7-6 score.

Now the dog-fight was really on. Lary and Dowler exchanged punts and the two clubs exchanged missed field goals. Walker was wide to the left from the 41 and Hornung was low and short on his try from the 47.

The big clock showed only 5:01 left when the Lions took over on their own 22 after Pat Stud still ran Hornung's field goal try back from the 5.

The one point loomed large as the Lions ran up two first downs. Each series started with two runs and on each third down Plum completed first-down passes to Cogdill, the first for nine yards to the 34 and the second for 12 to the Lion 47.

That's where the ball was when the officials took time out for the 2-minute warning. Pietrosante ran right end for three to the 50. Lewis tried to go wide around left end but was stopped cold. Each play was followed by a timeout by the Packers to stop the clock.

On the third play, Plum tried another pass. And that's where we came in!

Yankees Nip Giants, 3-2, Lead Series

final National League playoff game Wednesday in Los Angeles. The odds-makers have established the Yankees a 7½-to-5 favorite to win today and 4-1 to take the series. Today's weather forecast is fair with increasing cloudiness late in the day.

Manager Ralph Houk of the Yankees planned to use the same line-up against right-hander Marichal he employed against left-hander Billy Pierce Sunday. The Yankees broke through Pierce's guard in only one inning but that was enough. Three straight hits in the seventh—more than they got in the other seven innings—helped produce three runs and caused the removal of Pierce.

The hits, singles by Tommy Tresh, Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris, were hard smashes, but three glaring mistakes helped the Yankee cause and pin the defeat on the 35-year-old southpaw who pitched a shutout victory over the Dodgers in the first NL playoff game and saved the third with a perfect final-inning relief chore.

Alou's Error

Felipe Alou's error on Mantle's left-field single permitted Tresh to advance a base to third with Mickey taking second on the throw. Willie McCovey's failure to hold Maris' two-run RBI single to right field permitted Roger to take second, from where he advanced to third after Ellie Howard's fly to Willie Mays.

Don Larsen, who had relieved Pierce following Maris' hit, plunked Bill Skowron on the back with a pitched ball. Then came the play on which the winning run scored, although there was no way for anyone in the silent crowd of 71,434 to suspect it was the clincher at the time.

Clete Boyer bounced to Jose Pagan. The shortstop flipped to second base for a force on Skowron but Chuck Hiller momentarily bobbled the ball, then got off a weak throw to first, a fraction of a second too late for the double play. Maris crossed the plate with the third run.

"It would have been a double play if he had gotten the ball and thrown it without the bobble," said Dark.

Hiller explained, "I never really had it in my glove. I sort of let it pon out the second it was there and threw the ball without really being able to get a good grip on it."

Skowron, the runner erased on the force, had another version. "I'm not sure but I think he took his eyes off the ball because he was trying to get away from my slide. I was out to break up the double play."

Last His Grip

"I was angry at being hit and I was not going to let him make the double play if I could help it. He avoided me by going inside second and that's where he might have lost his grip on the ball."

Dark planned to make only one change from the line-up that could get only four hits against the strong pitching of Stafford. Two came in the ninth, when the Giants scored their only runs on Ed Bailey's two out home run on top of Mays' double.

Harvey Kuenn, who failed to hit in five tries against Ford in the opener, returned to the outfield but was placed in right field with Alou remaining in left.

In Candlestick Park, Felipe usually plays right field and Kuenn left. But there the right

Houk Looks Back on Game, Points Out 4 Key Plays in Victory

Question Whether Maris Should Have Been Walked in 7th

BY TED SMITS

NEW YORK (AP)—Should Billy Pierce have walked Roger Maris in the big seventh inning of the third World Series game with second and third occupied and first base open?

It is a strategy sometimes employed in baseball in order to set up a play at every base.

"We were ready to give the Yankees a run, but we weren't going to give Maris anything good to hit at," said Manager Al Dark of the San Francisco Giants.

"You can't walk Maris to get at Elston Howard," said Pierce grimly.

So he pitched to him, and Maris lashed a single to right that scored Tom Tresh and Mickey Mantle, who had both singled, and started the New York Yankees on the way to a 3-2 victory over the Giants and a 2-1 lead in the Series.

With no one out in a scoreless game it would have been extremely hazardous to have walked Maris, good hitter that he is.

Four Big Plays

As Manager Ralph Houk of the Yankees saw the game in retrospect there were four big plays.

1 — Felipe Alou's spectacular leaping catch at the fence of Howard's smash in the second, with Mantle already on base on an error. If he hadn't have made it, Mantle probably would have scored, and possibly the ball would have fallen in for a homer.

2 — Jim Davenport's equally spectacular leaping catch of Bill Skowron's drive in the fifth that led to doubling Howard off second. Howard had led off the inning with a double to left. The ball looked like a sure hit that could have scored Howard.

3 — Maris going from second to third in the seventh after Howard fled out to Willie Mays, who has one of the greatest arms in baseball. This set the stage for:

4 — The failure of the Giant infield to make a critical double play in the same inning. With Maris on third, Skowron was hit by Pierce and took first. Then Clete Boyer hit a high hopping grounder to Jose Pagan who tossed to Chuck Hiller for what looked like the start of a double play and the end of the inning. Instead Hiller had trouble getting a good hold on the ball and the momentary delay let Boyer beat the throw to first. While all field is the sun field and more difficult, while at Yankee Stadium it's the other way around. Alou had some difficulty in left field, but he made one of the series' great defensive plays, a back-handed, glove-hand catch on Howard's near home run in the second.

this was happening Maris streaked home with what proved to be the winning run.

Drama in Ninth

There was drama in the ninth but not enough for the taste of the Giants. Bill Stafford, who took a hard smash on his left shin bone in the eighth but stayed in the game, was grooving his pitches across the plate in an effort to stay ahead of the batters. Up to the ninth he had tamed the Giants completely.

Mays, first up, hit the first pitch for a double to left. Willie McCovey hit the first pitch but grounded out. Orlando Cepeda, also hit the first pitch but flied to Maris. Then Ed Bailey filled the first pitch into the right field bleachers. Maris couldn't get back to the wall in time to make the catch.

This made the score 3-2 in favor of the Yankees and Jim Davenport ended the tightly played, brilliant fielded and superbly pitched game with a fly to left.

Red Sox Hire Johnny Pesky

Mike Higgins Promoted to Executive Job

NEW YORK (AP)—Johnny Pesky, a long-time Boston Red Sox player and manager of their Seattle farm club for the last two seasons, was named Saturday night to manage the Red Sox in 1963, succeeding Mike Higgins.

Higgins moves up to a newly created post of executive vice president in charge of baseball. Dick O'Connell, executive vice president for the last two seasons, now holds the title executive vice president in charge of business.

SHEBOYGAN — Dick Odegaard threw touchdown passes of 37 and 40 yards to Al Zipperer to lead the Manitowoc County Chiefs to a 25-0 win over Sheboygan in a Central States League game here Saturday night.

The win was Manitowoc's fifth without defeat this year and 10th over the last two seasons.

Gerry King scored the third Chief touchdown and Walt Nowakowski added two field goals and an extra point.

John Hadl, the much-publicized rookie quarterback from the University of Kansas, is proving to be the savior of the San Diego Chargers and appears capable of steering them into a red-hot title fight against Denver and Dallas in the American Football League.

Hadl Leads Chargers Past Texans, 34-28

The talented Hadl, who showed so much soon after reporting that regular quarterback Jack Kemp was let go, threw two touchdown passes and scored once Sunday as the Chargers hung the first defeat of the season on the Dallas Texans, 34-28.

The loss dropped Dallas into second place in the Western Division with a 3-1 record. Denver, a Friday night winner against Oakland, took over the top spot with 4-1. San Diego is now 3-2.

Houston stayed tied with Boston's Patriots for the Eastern Division lead with a 3-1 mark after sinking Buffalo Sunday 17-14 as George Blanda threw a TD pass to Bill Groman with only 30 seconds to play. The Patriots defeated New York 43-14 Saturday night.

Browns Win

In the National League, Green Bay edged Detroit 9-7. Washington won over Los Angeles 20-14. New York defeated St. Louis 31-14. San Francisco beat Baltimore 21-13. Cleveland downed Dallas 19-10 and Chicago shut out Minnesota 13-0.

Hadl took over the Chargers full-time quarterbacking when Kemp was released on waivers to Buffalo following the fracture of a finger on his throwing hand. Kemp had led San Diego to division titles the first two years of the league's existence.

But Hadl, most valuable player in the college All-Star game in Chicago in August, has been exactly what Coach Sid Gillman has wanted. Four of his nine completions had been for scores up to 21 in the series.

It was the first World Series victory for the 24-year-old right-hander, who signed a Yankee contract in June, 1957, right after he completed a spectacular high school sports career in Athens, N.Y.

He got only $4,000, the bonus limit at the time.

"If I had waited three months," Stafford said today, "I could have had a $150,000 bonus. There were 15 scouts after me. One of them—and I'm not going to tell you which one—told me that afterwards."

"But how was I to know they were going to knock out the bonus rule limit in September?"

The Dodgers might have had Stafford at either figure, if they hadn't moved to Los Angeles.

Sign With Best

The Dodgers were my favorites, but they were moving to the coast, and I didn't want to leave and it's going to be black and Outsmirger's interception of War-blue. We'll just have to wait and see if I can pitch my next turn."

Jim Davenport, San Francisco third baseman, goes high into air to stab Bill Skowron's liner in the fifth inning of Sunday's World Series game at New York. Davenport quickly tossed to second baseman Chuck Hiller to double up Elston Howard, who had just belted a double. The Yankees won the game, 3-2. (AP Wirephoto)

Two Classes Wins Trophies

Lutheran High Seniors Top Skits, in Homecoming Show

Fox Valley Lutheran High School seniors won the traveling trophy for their skit night act, a $15 cash award and sophomores won first prize for the class display in homecoming activities Saturday.

The awards were presented by homecoming queen Jeanne Albers, Hilbert at half time of the football game Saturday. The seniors took first place in the public at the Congregational with their skit, 'Al Mellen's Church by the Ladies Aid Society'.

Sports Review, presented at the school Friday.

Class displays with an advertising slogan theme replaced floats this year. The winning sophomore display showed an eight foot tall bottle of deodorant with a scoreboard reading 50-0 in favor of the Foxes and a slogan reading "Foxes Take the Worries Out of Being Close."

Church Supper

LEEMAN — A supper will be served at 5 p.m. Wednesday to the public at the Congregational Church by the Ladies Aid Society.

Stockbridge Site for UW Art Course

The University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center will offer an evening art class in painting at Stockbridge High School, beginning Oct. 16.

The class is planned for both the beginning and the advanced painter. It will cover technique, preparation of painting surfaces, color usage, imagery and symbolism and composition. Class members may paint in the media they chose, but some St. Martin Lutheran Church
